'58 Was Just Ho-Hum Year For Average Little Fellow

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The little guy, any little guy going home this New Year's Eve, looked back on 1958 and could hardly see it. It wasn't much of a year, a kind of ho-hum year, a real second-rater, as years go.

Nothing was settled. It was a kind of in-between year, full of things left over to be settled later. It was like a boy carrying a bunch of packages from 1957 to 1959.

He had mixed feelings about it, and about himself too: both glad and uneasy.

When the recession hit, it was like being missed by lightning. Millions of guys lost their jobs but he kept his. He knew a recession is like lightning. It would hit again some time. Next time it might not miss him.

There was something to be uneasy about. Not too uneasy, but a little unsure, like all the times on the way to work when he wondered if he had put out that last cigarette before he left the house.

There was one thing didn't make him happy: it was the feeling that in the whole year he should have done more with his life. Maybe he could have done better if he were smarter, or thought harder. Ballyhoo.

He had this same feeling of time being wasted at the end of every year. No reason to. This was the way he was; he had no illusions: he had realized long ago he'd never set the world afire. So why feel disappointed?

He knew he felt smaller in 1958 than in any year of his life, and the world looked bigger. He felt less and less a part of things, more and more left out. It was easy to tell when that started with him.

It was in the fall of 1957 when the Russians sent their first Sputniks up. It was like being thrown bodily into a new world and he was unprepared for it. He had spent his whole life earthbound, looking down, not up.

The Sputniks were like a can-opener: they lifted the lid on a whole new world over his head and men were talking of sailing out into it, to the moon and even to the planets beyond.

All of a sudden scientists were the princes of the new order, the guides to the future, the magicians of time and space. He wished his kids would fit into the new world coming, better than he knew he'd ever be able to.

He told himself: 'You sound a little phony, moaning about all you don't know about space and rockets and things like that. How much do you know about what's going on around you down here?'

It was a good question. He knew he wouldn't get high marks on that one either. There were too many things happening in too many ways and in too many places for him to know more than just little pieces.

Politics, for instance. He knew American politics pretty well. He could spot a big mouth in an empty head as fast as the next guy. What about economics? He was glad there was no one around to pin him down on economics. But then even the economists themselves never seemed to agree. So he felt he could sound off on prices and wages without sounding too bad.

But he really bogged down when he began thinking of what went on between the United States, and the Soviet Union, and Red China, and other countries. Then he didn't know what to think.

Was anybody—say the United States or the Soviet Union—getting ahead of anybody? He knew all the talking, all the dickering, was just preparation for something. He didn't know. Maybe he'd never know in his lifetime.

He was living better than he had ever lived. He liked to think it would always be like that: better every year. Not so much for himself. For his kids. He didn't know. He couldn't be sure.

All he knew, when he reached his house this New Year's Eve and went inside, it wasn't so much like closing a door on a year as it was like closing a door on just another day.

Tonight's Time To Forget '58 Troubles, Look Ahead

Both Sides Claim Cuban Upper Hand

HAVANA (AP)—Both President Fulgencio Batista's army and Fidel Castro's rebels today claimed the upper hand as fierce fighting continued in central Cuba.

The government said it now is winning the battle for Santa Clara, capital of the central province of Las Villas, where an estimated 3,000 government troops and rebels have been killed or wounded.

The rebel radio made no mention of the fighting around Santa Clara but continued to claim victories elsewhere. It said Batista's overthrow is imminent.

Government airraids on at least five smaller towns in Las Villas confirmed that the rebels were strongly entrenched in the southern part of the province, whose rural areas they claim to dominate. Rebel control of Las Villas would cut the island republic in half.

The rebel radio also said insurgents had extended their holdings in Oriente province, at the eastern end of Cuba. Castro launched his guerrilla war against Batista from the Oriente mountains 25 months ago.

The government rushed thousands of fresh troops to Santa Clara, about 160 miles east of Havana. Tanks, artillery and warplanes are backing up the troops in fighting against an estimated 3,000 rebel foot soldiers.

Normal communications with Santa Clara were disrupted and reports from there conflicted.

Reliable sources estimated the casualties at 3,000 and said they might go higher. A government source claimed aerial attacks alone had inflicted 2,000 rebel casualties.

Some government sources said the army was now cleaning up in the city, hunting rebels from house to house and warning civilians of a death penalty for aiding rebels. Many civilians had fled the city of 150,000 persons since street fighting began Monday.

Towns attacked by government planes in the last two days beside Santa Clara included Cruces, 20 miles west of the provincial capital; Cumanayagua, 30 miles southwest; Fomento, 25 miles southeast; Sancti Spiritus, 50 miles southeast; and Trinidad, 40 miles south.

New U.S. Flag Due Saturday

Alaska To Become State Officially

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation gets a new state and a new flag Saturday.

President Eisenhower will sign the proclamation making Alaska the 49th state at a formal ceremony in the White House Saturday noon. He will fly to Washington for the purpose and return later to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm for the remainder of the weekend.

The new state enters the Union immediately. The new flag will become official next July 4, but flag makers in New York said Monday they would have a few of the 49-star flags available as early as next week.

The flag design will not be announced until Saturday. There was speculation it would consist of the present 13 stripes, with 7 rows of 7 stars each in the blue field.

The design was picked from nearly 2,000 suggestions received by a screening committee.

Flagmakers are eager to begin production of the new version. They expect to have flags ready within a day or two, but not many. A backlog of orders has piled up.

The new design for the stars will not affect the proportions of the old flag. Manufacturers can tear out the blue field on present inventory stocks, burn it, and substitute the new blue background.

Decision Nearing In Marine's Case

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—A general court-martial board today is expected to decide the fate of a Marine sergeant accused of pocketing money belonging to recruits.

Rebuttal testimony will wind up the three-day military trial of S. Sgt. Ralph Grant, 26, of Racine, Wis.

The New Year's eve proceedings were brought on by prolonged personal testimony Grant was forced to give Tuesday after he took the stand in his own behalf.

The searching cross-examination was aimed mainly at Grant's personal finances as well as at his money dealings with the Ohio recruit platoon he led last summer as senior drill instructor.

Advice for Tonight's Celebrators

By HAL BOYLE
AP Staff Writer

This is the night of opportunity—the opportunity of living to see New Year's Day dawn.

Many won't make it. But you can. All it takes is a little care and forethought for the next 12 hours or so.

Then careworn old 1958 will be behind you, and you'll be alive and eager—well, alive anyway—to face the challenge of the brave new world of 1959.

Many people honestly want to survive New Year's Eve, but don't know how. Here are a few tips for the careless liver:

Sell your car this afternoon. If you sell it, you can't drive it to a party tonight.

If you can't sell your car, lend it to a neighbor and let him drive it to whatever party he's attending. If someone has to get into an accident, better him than you.

Take an airplane trip to Europe. Statistics prove there are fewer safer places on New Year's Eve than aboard a commercial plane flying over an ocean.

Has your doctor been bothering you for years to have your tonsils or an ulcer cut out? Why not have the operation done tonight? The nurses would rather welcome you as a routine patient than an accident case.

If you are a serious drinker, be proud. Remember, New Year's Eve is for the amateurs. Stick to ginger ale this night. Then you can have the fun of watching the beginners make fools of themselves.

If you are the last to leave the party and are walking home, don't cross in the middle of the block. In fact, don't cross any street anywhere. Just walk around the block until the sun comes up.

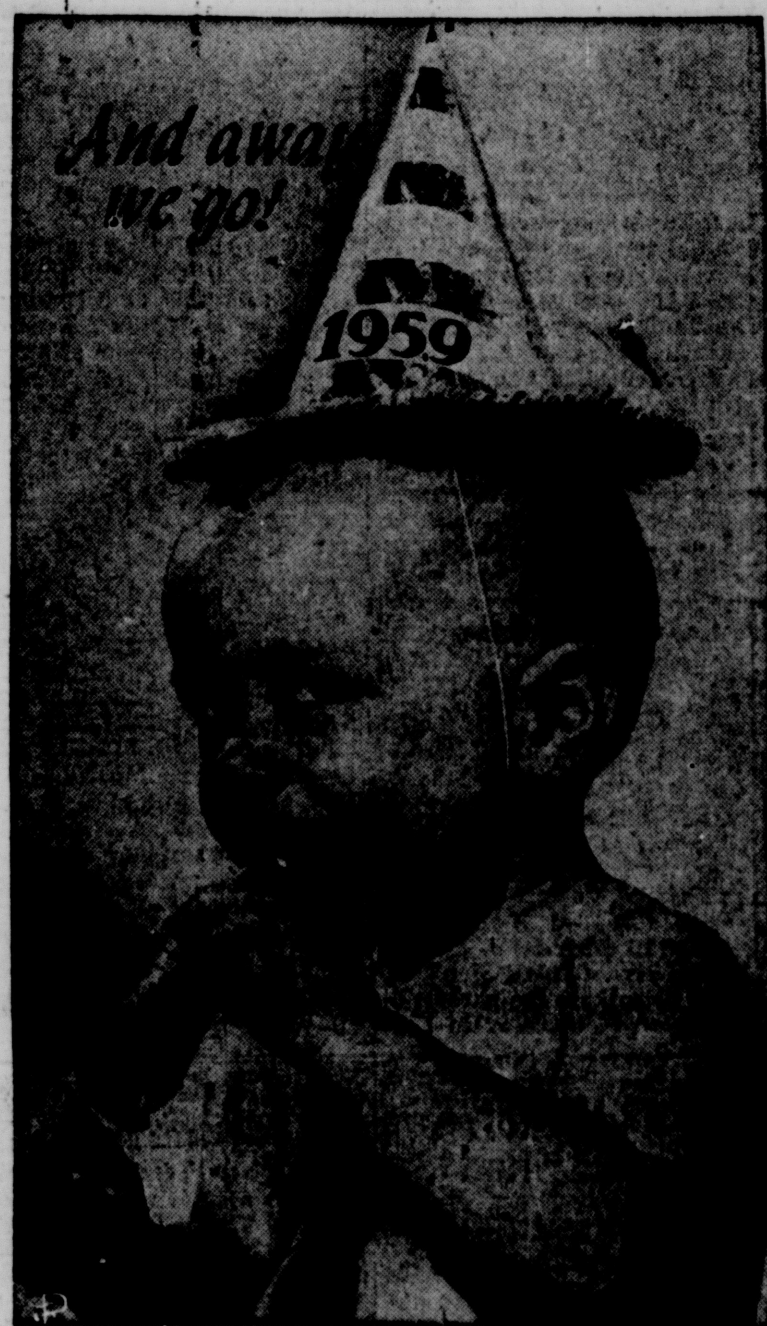

Personal safety suggests you avoid discussing the following topics at a New Year's Eve party: National politics, baseball, football, sex, and such questions as who's the prettiest girl in the room. Topics you can feel free to give your views on include the weather, income taxes, and why hasn't the government done more for the whooping crane?

Some people feel the urge to adventure with weird new drinks at New Year's Eve parties. If this temptation overwhelms you, try vodka and epsom salts. It is non-habit-forming, and you will wake up Thursday with a clear head.

The best thing of all to do is to stay home, toss the cat out at 10 p.m., bolt and lock the doors and windows, take a sleeping pill and go to bed. You are not only safe from all forms of revelry and personal tomfoolery—you can't even be hit by lightning.

Happy New Year's Eve. See you Thursday?

World Ready To Ring In Another Year

New Year's Eve Fetes Of Many Kinds Slated At Stroke of Midnight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In New Orleans or New Delhi, Berlin or Buffalo, Santiago or Shanghai, tonight is the night to forget old troubles and look with hope to a new year.

Midnight will be greeted in many ways by many people as it moves around the globe ushering in another year. Undaunted by last year's broken resolutions, few will overlook an opportunity to turn away awhile from today's black headlines and hope 1959 will bring brighter ones.

There'll be fireworks atop Pike's Peak, a bonfire in Bangor, Maine, musket fire in Cherryville, N.C., and somewhere in the land there may be a chorus or two of "Auld Lang Syne" and perhaps even "Show Me the Way to Go Home."

In Tokyo, the Japanese are planning the biggest New Year's celebration since the end of World War II. They will pay off their old debts, get their hair fixed, take a hot bath and don bright new kimonos to greet their favorite holiday. It's the end of "The Year of the Rooster" and the beginning of "The Year of the Wild Boar."

Other Eastern nations—including Communist China—are planning traditional festivities.

The Red Chinese have reported big shipments of meats, cabbages, sugar, fish, chickens and fruits into Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai and other cities for New Year's Day and the Chinese spring festival which follows soon after.

In Europe, there'll be the traditional celebrations, not basically different from American festivities, with similar repercussions the day after. In Moscow, it's the biggest holiday of the year with gift-giving and decorations.

President Eisenhower is planning to spend New Year's Eve quietly at home in Gettysburg, Pa., with friends and relatives. He plans to stay at his farm until the end of the week.

There will be football bowl games in Pasadena, New Orleans, Miami and Dallas Thursday, along with marching bands, flower-decked floats and pretty girls.

The AdMan club in Colorado Springs, which adds one new member each year, will make its annual trek atop Pike's Peak at midnight to shoot fireworks.

In Maine, the city of Bangor has collected discarded Christmas trees for a giant bonfire to be set aglow, touching off the city's 125th anniversary celebration.

Cherryville, N.C., will honor a 150-year-old custom by firing muskets and singing an ancient chant—said to have come to the new country from Germany—in a special ceremony.

Clinton Air Base Bid On Building Sought

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The U.S. Engineers called today for bids, to be opened on or about Feb. 4, on the construction of a readiness crew building at the Clinton County Air Force Base, Wilmington, Ohio.

The two-story, air-conditioned structure will have approximately 23,000 square feet of floor space.

No Paper New Years

So that employees and carriers of The Circleville Herald may spend the New Year holiday with their families, there will be no paper Thursday. Regular features and comics will be in Friday's paper.

West Chills Red Plan for Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Big Three called on the Soviet Union today to discuss the entire German problem, including Berlin's future, at a new four-power conference. They rejected firmly any such talks under menace or ultimatum.

In similar notes, the United States, Britain and France:

1. Flatly rejected Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal to turn West Berlin into a so-called free city.
2. Denounced as a violation of international agreements Khrushchev's announced plan to turn over Soviet controls in East Berlin to the East Germans.
3. Served notice the three Allies intend to keep their forces in West Berlin to protect the freedom and security of the more than two million West Berliners.

In offering to talk over the German deadlock, the United States said in a 2,000-word note that it is "ready at any time to enter into discussions with the Soviet government."

The note emphasized that the proposed talks would not be on the Berlin problem alone, but should embrace "the wider framework of negotiations for a solution of the German problem as well as that of European security."

The note mentioned the need to talk over Western proposals for free all-German elections or "any

Missile Center Fires 2 Shots

'Fruitful' Year Ends At Cape Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A busy and fruitful 1958 ended with a double bang at this space age shooting gallery.

A Navy Polaris test rocket and an Air Force Thor were launched Tuesday before the New Year's Day shutdown of the test center and both exploded in the sky in a day of spectacular fireworks.

A year ago, with the Sputniks orbiting ominously overhead and the Soviet Union holding a massive lead in the space race, two failures so close together would have plunged the nation into deep gloom.

Today, America could laugh them off, for out of such failures have come successes which have put the free world in a neck-and-neck struggle with the Reds.

In one momentous year, this base has launched several satellites, one a 4½-ton Atlas which dwarfs the Sputniks. It has broken the intercontinental barrier with an Atlas which flew 6,325 miles. It has developed a host of other long and short range missiles. And it has sent probes hurtling toward the moon.

So residents of this bustling missile area took Tuesday's blowups in stride.

The Polaris, a solid fuel forerunner of an intermediate range ballistic missile which may be ready by 1960 for firing from nuclear powered submarines roaming the seas, went up in midday. It looked good for 90 seconds, scooting along at 5,000 miles an hour.

Then the range safety officer noted that the missile was drifting off course and pressed a button that blew it to pieces.

About 10 hours later, a fiery Thor blasted off the Cape. It looked bad from the beginning. Instead of climbing straight up, it leaned at an awkward angle.

Again, 90 seconds after firing, the safety officer stabbed the destruct button. The Thor exploded and a huge funnel of reddish flame marked its plunge into the Atlantic just off the Cape.

Amateur Rocket Blast Kills Boy

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—One teenager was fatally wounded by a rifle bullet and another was injured by the explosion of a crude home-made rocket Tuesday.

Howard Gaddis, 17-year-old high school student, died on an operating table at Good Samaritan Hospital after being hit in the neck by a .22 caliber rifle bullet.

Another 17-year-old, Gary Newcomer, fired the gun in the belief it was empty, police said. The incident was in the living room of Newcomer's home, and was witnessed by Jean Daugherty, 18.

David Preis, 13, suffered a severe hand injury when the rocket filled with gunpowder, exploded as he carried it from a neighbor's garage. He had been experimenting there with the device.

Utility Rate Plan Getting New Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A subcommittee of the Ohio Municipal League will meet again within two weeks to draw up a proposed revision of a state statute which spells out the formula for determining a public utility's rates.

The revision will be submitted to the Legislature and, if adopted, would tend to keep future rate increases at a minimum, said Ferd Pickens, Columbus Utilities director and a spokesman for the subcommittee.

Pickens said, however, that the change would have no effect on present rates.

The Utilities Legislative Subcommittee, with representatives from five cities, met here Tuesday on the heels of action by the Utilities Commission granting Ohio Bell Telephone Co. a 6 to 20 percent rate hike, effective Thursday.

Lawmen Warn Drivers Not To Imbibe

Police Chief Elmer Merriman and Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff today issued a joint reminder that New Year's celebrations here should be exercised with caution as far as driving is concerned.

Both lawmen agreed that New Year's is an appropriate time for celebrating, but urged all to do it in a safe and sane manner.

They stressed the old saying that "alcohol and driving do not mix." They also pointed out that area highways have been slippery in spots the last few nights, an indication that the same conditions will prevail Wednesday night.

The sheriff and chief explained that the stiff penalty for driving under the influence of intoxicants should serve as sufficient warning for all celebrators who plan to drive during the night's festivities.

Local streets and area highways will be patrolled as usual with officers instructed to take every precaution to assure normal traffic safety, the lawmen said.

Indications are that Circleville will observe a relatively quiet evening in the way of activities, with the accent on private parties.

Evening headlines include dances at the BPO Elks Lodge and the American Legion Home.

World Ready To Ring In Another Year

New Year's Eve Fetes Of Many Kinds Slated At Stroke of Midnight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In New Orleans or New Delhi, Berlin or Buffalo, Santiago or Shanghai, tonight is the night to forget old troubles and look with hope to a new year.

Midnight will be greeted in many ways by many people as it moves around the globe ushering in another year. Undaunted by last year's broken resolutions, few will overlook an opportunity to turn away awhile from today's black headlines and hope 1959 will bring brighter ones.

There'll be fireworks atop Pike's Peak, a bonfire in Bangor, Maine, musket fire in Cherryville, N.C., and somewhere in the land there may be a chorus or two of "Auld Lang Syne" and perhaps even "Show Me the Way to Go Home."

In Tokyo, the Japanese are planning the biggest New Year's celebration since the end of World War II. They will pay off their old debts, get their hair fixed, take a hot bath and don bright new kimonos to greet their favorite holiday. It's the end of "The Year of the Rooster" and the beginning of "The Year of the Wild Boar."

Other Eastern nations — including Communist China — are planning traditional festivities.

The Red Chinese have reported big shipments of meats, cabbages, sugar, fish, chickens and fruits into Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai and other cities for New Year's Day and the Chinese spring festival which follows soon after.

In Europe, there'll be the traditional celebrations, not basically different from American festivities, with similar repercussions the day after. In Moscow, it's the biggest holiday of the year with gift-giving and decorations.

President Eisenhower is planning to spend New Year's Eve quietly at home in Gettysburg, Pa., with friends and relatives. He plans to stay at his farm until the end of the week.

There will be football bowl games in Pasadena, New Orleans, Miami and Dallas Thursday, along with marching bands, flower-decked floats and pretty girls.

The AdAmAn club in Colorado Springs, which adds one new member each year, will make its annual trek atop Pike's Peak at midnight to shoot fireworks.

In Maine, the city of Bangor has collected discarded Christmas trees for a giant bonfire to be set aglow, touching off the city's 125th anniversary celebration.

Cherryville, N.C., will honor a 150-year-old custom by firing muskets and singing an ancient chant — said to have come to the new country from Germany — in a special ceremony.

Advice for Tonight's Celebrators

By HAL BOYLE
AP Staff Writer
This is the night of opportunity—the opportunity of living to see New Year's Day dawn.

Many won't make it. But you can. All it takes is a little care and forethought for the next 12 hours or so.

Then careworn old 1958 will be behind you, and you'll be alive and eager—well, alive anyway—to face the challenge of the brave new world of 1959.

Many people honestly want to survive New Year's Eve, but don't know how. Here are a few tips for the careless liver:

Sell your car this afternoon. If you sell it, you can't drive it to a party tonight.

If you can't sell your car, lend it to a neighbor and let him drive it to whatever party he's attending. If someone has to get into an accident, better him than you.

Take an airplane trip to Europe. Statistics prove there are fewer safer places on New Year's Eve than aboard a commercial plane flying over an ocean.

Has your doctor been bothering you for years to have your tonsils or an ulcer cut out? Why not have the operation done tonight? The nurses would rather welcome you as a routine patient than an accident case.

If you are a serious drinker, be proud. Remember, New Year's Eve is for the amateurs. Stick to ginger ale this night. Then you can have the fun of watching the beginners make fools of themselves.

If you are the last to leave the party and are walking home, don't cross in the middle of the block. In fact, don't cross any street anywhere. Just walk around the block until the sun comes up.

Personal safety suggests you avoid discussing the following topics at a New Year's Eve party: National politics, baseball, football, sex, and such questions as who's the prettiest girl in the room. Topics you can feel free to give your views on include the weather, income taxes, and why hasn't the government done more for the whooping crane?

Some people feel the urge to adventure with weird new drinks at New Year's Eve parties. If this temptation overwhelms you, try vodka and epsom salts. It is non-habit-forming, and you will wake up Thursday with a clear head.

The best thing of all to do is to stay home, toss the cat out at 10 p. m., bolt and lock the doors and windows, take a sleeping pill and go to bed. You are not only safe from all forms of revelry and personal tomfoolery — you can't even be hit by lightning.

Happy New Year's Eve. See you Thursday?

General Telephone Announces Four New Job Assignments

Four organizational changes within the General Telephone Company of Ohio were announced in Marion today by Clare E. Williams, company president.

Richard N. Cole, general commercial manager, has been named administrative assistant to the president. Cole started his telephony career in 1936 with the Automatic Electric Company, Chicago, Illinois, in the sales division.

A native Chicagoan, he served the Wabash Telephone Company and Illinois Telephone Company until 1947 when he accepted an appointment as general superintendent of Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company. From this position, he progressed to general manager which was followed by an appointment to vice president and general manager.

In 1950, Cole was named president of Ohio Consolidated and remained in that capacity until the company became part of the General Telephone System. He came to Marion in 1957 as general commercial manager for General of Ohio and Ohio Consolidated.

CIRCLEVILLE exchange was a part of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. until early this year. It is currently in General's Central Division.

Marvin R. Johnston, general commercial engineer, will succeed Cole as general commercial manager of the company. Johnston came to Marion as senior traffic engineer in 1950, and has held the responsibility of general commercial engineer since December, 1951. He started his career in the telephone business in 1940 with the General Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

Richard C. Stearnes, presently Central Division commercial superintendent will become general commercial engineer. Stearnes began his telephone career in 1945 with the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company. He has served General of Ohio as commercial superintendent since November, 1956.

In the other organizational change, Howard E. Conley, Marion district commercial manager, has been appointed Central Division commercial superintendent, succeeding Stearnes.

Conley entered the telephone business in Marion in 1948 with General Telephone Company of Ohio. He has been employed in his present position since May, 1958.

These organizational changes will become effective January 1, 1959, Williams concluded.

GOP Regulars Back Dirksen

Defeat of Republican Liberals Said Coming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican regulars rallied behind Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois in the face of an insurgent challenge to his Senate GOP floor leadership bid.

Senators Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and Francis Case of South Dakota said in separate interviews they will support Dirksen in his forthcoming contest with Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.

Moreover, Dirksen announced he had been authorized by Sen. J. Glenn Beall of Maryland to say that Beall would vote for him. The Maryland Republican had been counted by Republican liberals as one of them but he did not show up Tuesday at a meeting at which eight rebels agreed upon a slate.

From other sources it was reported that Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, who also had been wooed by the liberal group, has committed himself to back Dirksen.

The insurgents, who contend they form the core of Eisenhower backers in the Senate, chose Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California as their candidate for whip, or assistant leader.

They left open until a meeting next Tuesday the question of whether they will challenge other veterans in the present leadership, including Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the party's policy committee.

Dirksen said he isn't worried by the minority uprising, which the rebels said was aimed primarily at gaining a voice in the direction of Senate Republican affairs and in the formation of policies at Eisenhower's weekly meetings with GOP congressional leaders.

"I feel quite confident of my election," Dirksen said.

He said he had heard no mention of any other candidate than Kuchel for the whip's post, from which Dirksen hopes to advance to the floor leadership vacated by retiring Sen. William F. Knowland of California.

But Curtis said it is by no means a foregone conclusion that Kuchel won't have opposition from the conservative side.

Cooper and Kuchel were publicly optimistic about their chances of gaining a majority when the 34 GOP senators vote at an organizational conference Jan. 7.

Brazil Tomcat Slated To Ride Space Rocket

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A tomcat named Flamengo is gambling all his nine lives that Brazil will successfully enter the space age in January.

On a sandy beach, Army technicians will place Flamengo into a spare parts rocket called Felix I and try to shoot him up 72 miles. They are confident Flamengo will return safely.

Animal lovers aren't so sure. Thousands of letters of protest have poured into government offices from cat lovers. They argue that Flamengo has a long life ahead is Col. Manuel Dos Santos Lage, the project director.

"Flamengo belongs to my own two daughters," he said. "I would not expose him to death. The cat will return alive."

Felix I — Brazil's first attempt at getting into the space world — was put together from materials sitting in army warehouses since World War II. Students at the Technical School worked on it, building the engines as well as the rocket housing. The rocket cost only $1,500.

Felix I weighs 875 pounds, is 19 feet long and is supposed to go 72 miles in 190 seconds.

New Year's Eve Cost Same as In '57-Plenty

NEW YORK (AP) — New Year's Eve at most of the nation's leading hotels and night spots will cost you about the same as last year — which, as you may recall, was plenty.

Celebrants who want dinner and entertainment will pay up to $37.50 a person — and extra for the drinks.

A survey of major cities turned up no sign that the night spots are upping prices noticeably this year, though the trend for flat prices on New Year's Eve has long been upward.

Top tabs will be paid at the Empire Room of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York and Los Angeles' Coconut Grove.

At both places dinner, dancing, funny hats, horns and entertainment will cost about $37.50, including tax.

At the Waldorf's Empire Room that price will include listening to singer Eartha Kitt, Emil Coleman's orchestra and Gypsy violinist Bela Behai.

Most well-heeled celebrants who want to do the evening up right in major cities will be paying about $25 a person, plus up to $1.25 a drink extra.

That is the price in top spots in Miami Beach and Chicago, the plushier clubs on Los Angeles' Sunset Strip, and New York's ultra-swank Twenty-one and El Morocco.

Two big, brassy spots in New York, with elaborate floor shows and filet mignon dinners, are billing "all-night customers according to where they sit. At both the Copacabana and the Latin Quarter, it will be $15, $20 or $25 per person, depending upon location.

There will be a few bargains. At a Washington night club it will cost only $10 plus tax per person for dinner, one cocktail, souvenirs and noisemakers, the Ink Spots, a chorus line, singers and dancers — and breakfast.

The Waldorf will open its grand ballroom for a public New Year's Eve party for the first time in history. In addition to supper, hats, noisemakers and the music of Les and Larry Elgart, all the ladies will get gifts of French perfume — also for only $10 a head.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Rather Drastic Measures

DEAR ABBY: If I told you how much my husband and I wanted a baby you wouldn't believe it. We have both been going to doctors for 8 years and they say there is absolutely nothing wrong with either one of us. We've tried every suggestion we've ever heard of from friends and doctors, but so far no luck. My doctor says there is only one thing left for me to try and that is having all my teeth pulled. I never had any trouble with my teeth and I am only 27, but if that's causing my trouble I am willing to do it. Have you ever heard that this would help?

WANTING A FAMILY

DEAR WANTED: I don't know what kind of doctor you are presently consulting, but I urge you NOT to have all your teeth pulled until you have seen another doctor. Ask your American Medical Association to recommend a specialist for your difficulty.

DEAR ABBY: I like a boy from school and he is 15 and I am 14. He asked if he could see me some time and I said sure if he would come to my house. He said he wouldn't come to my house but he would meet me anywhere else I said. My mother doesn't like me to meet boys she has never seen. What should I do? FOURTEEN

DEAR FOURTEEN: Tell him if he won't come to your house like a gentleman, you can't see him. If he doesn't come, consider yourself lucky.

DEAR ABBY: Will you help an 83-year-old widow? I have no children, and only one nephew and several cousins but none of them have bothered to visit me in years. I have a neighbor who comes in to see me every day and I feel free to call on her any hour of the day or night. She's always bringing me goodies she has made and I don't know what I'd do without her. So what little money I have I would like to leave to my neighbor, but friends tell me that anyone over 80 is not of sound mind, according to the law, and kinfolks automatically come first. Is this correct?

OVER 80

DEAR OVER: "Soundness of mind" is not determined by age. Ask a lawyer or call your local Legal Aid Society.

DEAR ABBY: I have mother-in-law trouble! My husband and I have been married for 13 years. We have three lovely children. After she visits us (which is often) I find clippings from newspapers and magazines on how to raise children and how to work out marriage problems. I find these clippings in my drawers and on top of the refrigerator. She doesn't hand them to me, she just puts them around my house. I found one yesterday that just burned me up. I was going to mail it back to her, but thought I would ask for your advice first.

FED-UP

DEAR FED: Say nothing and ignore the clippings. When she finds that she is getting no reaction whatever from you, she'll give up.

DEAR ABBY: I am 45 and have been going with this man for four months. He is 50. Is it right for a woman to tell a man friend what she wants for gifts or should they be of his own choosing? He suggested I name several things I would like and he would surprise me with one. PROPER LADY

DEAR PROPER: Suggest a "few things" to be helpful — but be sure they are in the price range that suits his purse.

Here's a happy, hearty welcome to brand new '59. May it add up, for you and all your dear ones, to 365 days chock-ful of good fortune.

General Telephone Announces Four New Job Assignments

Four organizational changes within the General Telephone Company of Ohio were announced in Marion today by Clare E. Williams, company president.

Richard N. Cole, general commercial manager, has been named administrative assistant to the president. Cole started his telephony career in 1936 with the Automatic Electric Company, Chicago, Illinois, in the sales division.

A native Chicagoan, he served the Wabash Telephone Company and Illinois Telephone Company until 1947 when he accepted an appointment as general superintendent of Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company. From this position, he progressed to general manager which was followed by an appointment to vice president and general manager.

In 1950, Cole was named president of Ohio Consolidated and remained in that capacity until the company became part of the General Telephone System. He came to Marion in 1957 as general commercial manager for General of Ohio and Ohio Consolidated.

CIRCLEVILLE exchange was a part of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. until early this year. It is currently in General's Central Division.

Marvin R. Johnston, general commercial engineer, will succeed Cole as general commercial manager of the company. Johnston came to Marion as senior traffic engineer in 1950, and has held the responsibility of general commercial engineer since December, 1951. He started his career in the telephone business in 1940 with the General Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

Richard C. Stearnes, presently Central Division commercial superintendent will become general commercial engineer. Stearnes began his telephone career in 1945 with the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company. He has served General of Ohio as commercial superintendent since November, 1956.

In the other organizational change, Howard E. Conley, Marion district commercial manager, has been appointed Central Division commercial superintendent, succeeding Stearnes.

Conley entered the telephone business in Marion in 1948 with General Telephone Company of Ohio. He has been employed in his present position since May, 1958.

These organizational changes will become effective January 1, 1959, Williams concluded.

New Year's Road Toll Guess: 390

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimates 390 Americans may die in traffic accidents during the four-day New Year holiday and 11,000 other persons may suffer disabling accidents.

The council figured 350 traffic deaths would occur during a non-holiday period of equal length.

The 102-hour New Year holiday period runs from 6 p. m. local time Wednesday to midnight Sunday, Jan. 4.

The record traffic toll for a New Year holiday is 409, set in a four-day period at the end of 1956 and beginning of 1957.

GOP Regulars Back Dirksen

Defeat of Republican Liberals Said Coming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican regulars rallied behind Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois in the face of an insurgent challenge to his Senate GOP floor leadership bid.

Senators Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and Francis Case of South Dakota said in separate interviews they will support Dirksen in his forthcoming contest with Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.

Moreover, Dirksen announced he had been authorized by Sen. J. Glenn Beall of Maryland to say that Beall would vote for him. The Maryland Republican had been counted by Republican liberals as one of them but he did not show up Tuesday at a meeting at which eight rebels agreed upon a slate.

From other sources it was reported that Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, who also had been wooed by the liberal group, has committed himself to back Dirksen.

The insurgents, who contend they form the core of Eisenhower backers in the Senate, chose Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California as their candidate for whip, or assistant leader.

They left open until a meeting next Tuesday the question of whether they will challenge other veterans in the present leadership, including Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the party's policy committee.

Dirksen said he isn't worried by the minority uprising, which the rebels said was aimed primarily at gaining a voice in the direction of Senate Republican affairs and in the formation of policies at Eisenhower's weekly meetings with GOP congressional leaders.

"I feel quite confident of my election," Dirksen said.

He said he had heard no mention of any other candidate than Kuchel for the whip's post, from which Dirksen hopes to advance to the floor leadership vacated by retiring Sen. William F. Knowland of California.

But Curtis said it is by no means a foregone conclusion that Kuchel won't have opposition from the conservative side.

Farmers Call Income Tax 'Communistic'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two Richland County farmers who contend an income tax is communistic are in jail today for scuffling with revenue agents. And their father's farm has been posted for sale.

Richard Kislung, 40, and his brother, Dale, 38, are charged with attempting to interfere with the administration of internal revenue laws.

The 142-acre dairy farm, near Lexington, belongs to their father, Samuel Kislung.

He has been named in a lien filed at the Richland County Court House, in which the Internal Revenue Service says he owes $190,247 for back taxes and penalties for the years 1942 through 1956.

The elder Kislung and his wife, Ruth, are on a vacation trip to Arizona.

The scuffle came when revenue men visited the farm on Ohio 97 to read a seizure order based on the tax lien. The officers said the brothers grappled with special agents John D. Relic and Frank J. Gavin Jr.

After the men had been arrested the agents posted a notice on the property and brought the Kislungs here. Upon conviction of the interference charge the maximum penalty would be three years imprisonment and a fine of $5,000.

Richard Kislung told a reporter that paying income taxes would further the communist cause. He denied attacking anyone and said "we were upholding our constitutional rights."

He declared also that income taxes stem from the communist manifesto of Karl Marx, and amount to a confiscation of private property. He said he has filed blank income tax forms for the last three years and his brother for the last two.

Newsman Takes Jail Term Rather than Identify Source

NEW YORK (AP) — Marie Torre, reporter for the New York Herald Tribune, Tuesday chose to serve 10 days in jail rather than disclose her source of information for a story she wrote about singer Judy Garland.

U. S. Dist. Judge Sylvester J. Ryan ordered Miss Torre to surrender at 10 a.m. Monday to begin serving the sentence. She is the mother of two children.

A test case of a newsman's right not to divulge the source of a news story has been made of Miss Torre's refusal. She would not reveal the source of an item in a column she wrote which resulted in a libel suit against the Columbia Broadcasting System. Judge Ryan noted today that his sentence, imposed in November 1957, had been affirmed by the U. S. Court of Appeals and that the U. S. Supreme Court had refused to intervene in the case, thereby upholding his ruling.

Judge Ryan asked Miss Torre's attorney, Mathias Correa, if the columnist realized that after she served the jail sentence she could be called upon again to answer the questions and again be sentenced to jail if she refused.

Correa said he had so informed his client.

Judge Ryan said Miss Torre had an additional obligation as a journalist whose writings influence public opinion and declared she should not be allowed to defy the courts.

However, he emphasized his reluctance to commit the 34-year-old columnist to prison.

"I don't want to commit you, unless you compel me to," Judge Ryan said.

Judy Garland filed a suit for $1,393,333 in federal court against CBS March 15, 1957, alleging libel and breach of contract.

Miss Torre was called as a witness in the suit and was questioned about her column in which she quoted a CBS executive as having said Miss Garland "is known for a highly developed inferiority complex."

Ike To Give Annual Report in Person

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower will deliver his annual State of the Union message in person to Congress Jan. 9.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the address, to be carried on major radio and television networks, will not only review the administration's programs but also will survey "the state of the world."

Hagerty said the address will be a broad sweeping review. Detailed proposals will be set out in the budget message which will be sent to the Congress a week later, and in various later special messages.

"... BUT DON'T GO NEAR THE WATER"—A British aircraft company is said to be developing a ship that can cross the ocean without touching the water. In the sketch by artist-author Frank Tinsley for the January issue of Mechanix Illustrated magazine, the ship floats on compressed air forced through nozzles on its bottom. The vessel would carry up to 1,000 passengers, and would be pushed at speeds up to 100 miles an hour by two giant propellers driven by gas turbines. The ship would settle down into the water to dock.

GOP Attorney Gets Nod as City Judge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William T. Gillie, a Republican attorney, today was appointed a judge of the Columbus Municipal Court, effective Jan. 5.

Outgoing GOP Gov. C. William O'Neill appointed Gillie to succeed Democratic Judge Henry Holden, who has resigned effective Jan. 3 to take the Franklin County Common Pleas Court seat to which he was elected Nov. 4.

O'Neill also appointed Paul E. Kimes, Sandusky Republican, as the Amvet member of the Ohio War Orphans Scholarship Board. Senate confirmation is not required. Kimes succeeds Frances Petree, Toledo Democrat.

Big Escort

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Richard Barchick, 26, had lots of company on her way to St. Vincent's hospital where she gave birth to a son. When the arrival seemed imminent, she phoned her husband at work and called in four friends. Her husband phoned the fire department which dispatched a five-man rescue squad. The firemen, in turn, called in a two man police ambulance detail. The total of 12 persons, in various vehicles, accompanied Mrs. Barchick to the hospital.

Nevada became United States territory (later a state) in 1848 by the Treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo which ended the war with Mexico.

Collusion Hinted In Soda Ash Sale

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—The Springfield City Commission has asked the city law director to investigate possible collusion among six bidders on 210 tons of soda ash for the city water works.

Law Director Richard H. Wehler will be inquiring why all six suppliers submitted identical bids of $36.60 a ton.

The Springfield News said it has sent to the antitrust division of the Department of Justice in Washington copies of earlier soda ash bids. The newspaper reported it had word from Washington that some action is being taken.

NEW YORK (AP) — Marie Torre, reporter for the New York Herald Tribune, Tuesday chose to serve 10 days in jail rather than disclose her source of information for a story she wrote about singer Judy Garland.

U. S. Dist. Judge Sylvester J. Ryan ordered Miss Torre to surrender at 10 a.m. Monday to begin serving the sentence. She is the mother of two children.

A test case of a newsman's right not to divulge the source of a news story has been made of Miss Torre's refusal. She would not reveal the source of an item in a column she wrote which resulted in a libel suit against the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Judge Ryan noted today that his sentence, imposed in November 1957, had been affirmed by the U. S. Court of Appeals and that the U. S. Supreme Court had refused to intervene in the case, thereby upholding his ruling.

Judge Ryan asked Miss Torre's attorney, Mathias Correa, if the columnist realized that after she served the jail sentence she could be called upon again to answer the questions and again be sentenced to jail if she refused.

Correa said he had so informed his client.

Judge Ryan said Miss Torre had an additional obligation as a journalist whose writings influence public opinion and declared she should not be allowed to defy the courts.

However, he emphasized his reluctance to commit the 34-year-old columnist to prison.

Niles Assessment Claimed Too High

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two home owners in Niles asked the Ohio Supreme Court today to cut street improvement assessments against their properties.

Michael E. Cristo and Lewis P. Moherman appealed from Appellate Court restoration of cuts ordered by Trumbull County Common Pleas Court. Their properties are at Lincoln avenue and Griffin street.

Ike To Give Annual Report in Person

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower will deliver his annual State of the Union message in person to Congress Jan. 9.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the address, to be carried on major radio and television networks, will not only review the administration's programs but also will survey "the state of the world."

Hagerty said the address will be a broad sweeping review. Detailed proposals will be set out in the budget message which will be sent to the Congress a week later, and in various later special messages.

BUT DON'T GO NEAR THE WATER—A British aircraft company is said to be developing a ship that can cross the ocean without touching the water. In the sketch by artist-author Frank Finsley for the January issue of Mechanix Illustrated magazine, the ship floats on compressed air forced through nozzles on its bottom. The vessel would carry up to 1,000 passengers, and would be pushed at speeds up to 100 miles an hour by two giant propellers driven by gas turbines. The ship would settle down into the water to dock.

GOP Attorney Gets Nod as City Judge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William T. Gillie, a Republican attorney, today was appointed a judge of the Columbus Municipal Court, effective Jan. 5.

Outgoing GOP Gov. C. William O'Neill appointed Gillie to succeed Democratic Judge Henry Holden, who has resigned effective Jan. 3 to take the Franklin County Common Pleas Court seat to which he was elected Nov. 4.

O'Neill also appointed Paul E. Kimes, Sandusky Republican, as the Amvet member of the Ohio War Orphans Scholarship Board. Senate confirmation is not required. Kimes succeeds Frances Petree, Toledo Democrat.

Big Escort

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Richard Barchick, 26, had lots of company on her way to St. Vincent's hospital, where she gave birth to a son. When the arrival seemed imminent, she phoned her husband at work and called in four friends. Her husband phoned the fire department which dispatched a five-man rescue squad. The firemen, in turn, called in a two-man police ambulance detail. The total of 12 persons, in various vehicles, accompanied Mrs. Barchick to the hospital.

Collusion Hinted In Soda Ash Sale

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The Springfield City Commission has asked the city law director to investigate possible collusion among six bidders on 210 tons of soda ash for the city water works.

Law Director Richard H. Wehler will be inquiring why all six suppliers submitted identical bids of $36.60 a ton.

The Springfield News said it has sent to the antitrust division of the Department of Justice in Washington copies of earlier soda ash bids. The newspaper reported it had word from Washington that some action is being taken.

We Are Not Joiners Now

Almost two-thirds of those filling in a questionnaire distributed by the National Opinion Research Center belong to no voluntary association, civic or church group, union or veterans organization.

Less than a quarter are members of unions and only about a fifth of fraternal or secret societies. Only a tenth of those surveyed belong to other organizations.

In the era of Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt" the average American was regarded as a "joiner" unable to resist invitations to an array of fraternal and secret societies, luncheon and civic clubs, organizations devoted to reform, uplift, mutual benevolence and self-improvement. If this stereotype of American gregariousness was ever authentic, it is no longer.

The lodge, the community association, the neighborhood and outing clubs, the evening discussion and musical groups, the singing, dancing and bowling societies which abounded half a century ago have vanished, or survive with greatly depleted membership and enthusiasm.

They were overwhelmed by the changes in leisure-time opportunities that followed World War I. First the movie, then the automobile and radio, and finally television disrupted old social patterns and replaced less passive forms of entertainment.

The new mobility of the American worker, the flight to the suburbs, the rise of the great insurance companies and the federal social security system that outmoded fraternal societies also had something to do with lessening the need to join organizations in search of companionship, recreation or economic aid.

In the newer suburbs, where young families predominate, there is still some incentive for promoting local causes and cultivating fellowship. But elsewhere, it appears, the joining instinct is a mere flicker. Dues money now helps meet installment payments.

Europe Trade War Looms

When the agreement was reached in Rome two years ago that major European countries would form a common market and gear their trade to an integrated schedule of reductions in tariffs and quotas, the action was hailed as one of the great advances in international cooperation.

In the two years that have passed, however, indications have increased that actual creation of the common market, known as the "European Economic Community," may split Europe into two trading camps and thus wipe out many of the gains made since World War II by the U. S.-sponsored Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEEC).

The problem involved is a historic one. Primarily it stems from the desire of Britain to retain the benefits of its cooperative trading arrangements with commonwealth countries and still share in the European common market benefits.

The six European countries which have combined, led France, say in effect that the British are trying to eat their cake and have it too and they (the Europeans) do not regard that as fair. Consequently, the Europeans will not join in a free trade area arrangement with Britain and the other 11 countries outside the common market giving them the benefits of the market but not the responsibilities.

The common market is scheduled to go into effect January 1. The free trade area has been ditched almost entirely. Unless some compromise can be devised, it appears as though Europe is destined to undergo a severe trade war in the next few years.

Cut Out Fats and Cheat Death

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Some doctors now estimate that if Americans would cut their intake of fat foods by 25 per cent, the number of heart deaths could be cut in half within 20 years.

At one time, Turks and Arabs reckoned their wealth by the number of fat ladies they kept in their harems.

Did you know that 80 per cent of U. S. drivers aged 60 or more, have problems with their vision? Which reminds us of a recent query by Robert Q. Lewis: "Has anyone heard about the flea trainer who became an elephant trainer—because his sight was failing?" Although people are marrying younger, they don't necessarily plunge headlong into wedlock.

More than 87 per cent of marriages are still preceded by an engagement period, and 62 per cent of the engagement rings are given at Christmas.

One way to avoid fires is to go to church. Last year churches had only 1.05 fires per hundred buildings, compared to 2.65 for colleges and 5.6 for restaurants and taverns.

Don't worry if your child is left-handed. Left-handed people are legendarily superior in brain power to the right-handed.

The French celebrate St. Catherine's Day on Nov. 25, when every young seamstress in Paris goes on a citywide husband hunt.

I rather like this definition by Grace Downs, who runs an air hostess school: "An optimist is a guy who figures when his shoes wear out he'll be back on his feet."

Working women get fewer skin diseases than do men, even on identical jobs.

Remember Typhoid Mary? Now there are 2,500 U. S. typhoid carriers who are insulated or isolated against social contacts, to keep them from creating epidemics.

Contrary to popular opinion, the better adjusted and less neurotic you are, the more easily you can be hypnotized.

Ever wonder how far a jack-rabbit can leap in a single hop? The answer: 15 to 20 feet.

It was Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel who predicted: "If we can go through the next 20 years without a world war, humanity will enter a new era of universal peace."

DeGaulle -- Real Conservative

By George Sokolsky

Charles de Gaulle represents conservatism, not so much in the sense of political or economic ideas, but rather in the broadest sense of morality. He stands for what used to be called the old-fashioned virtues, duty, honor, personal dignity, family life, religious affiliation and worship, patriotism.

In the early decades of the 20th Century, such concepts of life were regarded as corny, just as Liszt and Chopin in music were regarded as corny.

The world went wild. What seemed important was sophistication, a kind of know-it-all attitude which really exhibited astonishing lack of knowing anything even how to live in a mannerly and orderly fashion. In this country, we have attributed this disease to Prohibition and its aftermath, but it was a universal condition even in universities which knew no Prohibition.

It is not too easy to assess the meaning of de Gaulle's acceptance by the French people. But of this we can be sure: they have accepted a leader who believes that so-called sophistication and cynicism ate at the very heart of the French people, debased its youth and corrupted its social and economic life.

It is to be expected that de Gaulle will battle this rot as Adenauer has battled it in West Germany and as Khrushchev would like to battle it in the Soviet Empire, but Khrushchev faces the difficulty that morality requires religion to sustain it and Khrushchev has no religion.

What these changes in attitude on the Continent will do in Great Britain and the United States, it is difficult to know, but powerful movements cannot appear in one part of the world without their influence spreading everywhere, and all the world is weary of the phonies and exhibitionists and vulgarities who prostitute themselves through every means of publicity even such as ridicule themselves.

During the war years, money was to an astonishing degree internationalized and banking became a profession of operators without country, without patriotism, without philosophy of life. The stateless money-grubbers used their wealth as a passport but often what they did was at the expense of the country where they settled.

Thus one could witness in any large money center, these men of money bartering, scheming, conniving without regard to any interest but the small percentage they earned on their pecuniary transactions, which in the aggregate could amount to disaster.

It was during this period that the tax haven developed to its present enormity, the largest, Switzerland, having become the most mischievous nation of the time. Gold hoarding and gold smuggling have become a gentleman's occupation and national economies are being wrecked by the greed and selfishness of those who call themselves bankers.

France particularly suffers from this type of selfishness, the French banker and businessman operating as though he had no country. His country is money. He could transact deals with Soviet Russia as he did with Nazi Germany during the war. He bought political parties to protect him in his corruption and he put his own politicians in office so that they could aid and abet him in his economic deals. He made a fetish of the deal which he put above all in life.

De Gaulle may be expected to wipe this type of fellow off the face of the Earth. The speculator who is now pounding down the franc will find no ally in de Gaulle who did not save France to enrich fringe speculators. When he cracks down on them in France, he may expose the foulness of their conduct so that we see it here in the United States.

He may find a way to force Switzerland to live among nations on a moral rather than a pawnshop basis.

For this needs to be clear: the money speculators, the hoarders and tax-haven devotees are the same persons in France, in Great Britain, in the United States, in Switzerland and in Holland. They always operate in cartelized groups; they always function with government support somewhere. They are keeping the currencies of the world disturbed, so that they can make their profits; they are depriving governments of their due taxes by schemes and devices that are only possible if responsible departments of government shut their eyes to what is going on.

The de Gaulle approach may be different. It may be a moral rather than legalistic approach and it may succeed in exposing the corruption.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RUMER GODDEN, talented English author, received a telephone call in her London home from an American woman who declared she was a great admirer of Miss Godden and had read every one of her books.

"I'd love to drop 'round and pay my respects in person," she trilled. "Come by all means," agreed the courteous Miss Godden. The lady thereupon turned up for tea with SIXTEEN other ladies! It developed that the American admirer ran a tour of Europe in which the customers were promised they would meet famous authors and be entertained by them in their homes!

Miss Godden told Roger Smith, of Publishers' Weekly, about another "fan" who wrote to ask for her autograph. Miss Godden mailed it, and in due course received another note from the fan which read, "I have analyzed your handwriting. You are deceitful, selfish, and mean."

Don't Over-Diet

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Most of you who want to reduce make the same mistake as a rule. You embark upon a diet so rigid and restricting that you can't maintain it with safety.

After a week or two, you drop the whole idea of reducing and go back to your old eating routine, which continues to add pounds.

As I have said so often before, you must cut your caloric intake if you want to reduce, but you can't cut it too much.

The most sound advice I can give you is to check with your doctor before beginning any reducing diet. He will tell you what type of diet will be most effective for you.

The number of calories you require depends upon your sex, activity, body structure and a number of other things.

In most cases, a temporary 1,500 caloric per day diet is about right for a gradual weight reduction program.

The very efficient American Dietetic Association of Chicago has worked out one of these diets which I would like to pass on to you.

The following will give you approximately 1,500 calories per day, which, generally, is adequate for adults, at least temporarily.

1 pint whole milk.

5 oz. lean meat, fish, poultry (broiled, boiled or roasted — not fried) or cheese. These 5 oz. may be divided between lunch and dinner. Be sure to eat liver once a week.

½ cup enriched or whole grain cereal.

1 small potato.

4 slices enriched or whole wheat bread.

1 serving green or yellow vegetables.

2 servings other vegetables.

1 serving citrus fruit or tomato juice (4-oz. glass orange or grapefruit juice, or 8-oz. glass tomato juice).

2 servings other fruit, either fresh or unsweetened.

4 tsp. butter or enriched margarine.

Ask your doctor about this diet. For most of you who want to cut your weight and keep it cut, it ought to do the trick.

G.R.: What would cause a grating sound at the base of the head as it is moved from side to side or up and down?

Answer: A grating sound at the base of the head may be due to arthritis or other rheumatic changes in that area. An X-ray may reveal the condition.

I Made Trip Through Space

Weightlessness Is Unusual Experience for Reporter

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles in which a reporter gives his personal experiences while making a "trip into space" via research equipment at the Wright Air Development Center, Dayton.

By DOUG WALKER

Dayton Journal Writer
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—I floated in air.

Free floating, without touching anything but air, I could flip over, glide, stand on my head, or just lie there, all with a feeling of perfect security.

I can hardly believe it myself, but it happened during my trip into space.

The people at Wright Air Development Center (WADC) who made my space journey possible and safeguarded me along the way say I am the first non-government attached civilian to free float at WADC.

Bob Doty, chief Journal Herald photographer, along to take pictures, became so fascinated he donned a helmet and became the second non-military man to do so. Actually it happened 10,000 feet above the earth in the cabin of a C131B aircraft.

Weightlessness—or zero gravity—is one of the items spacemen must deal with.

It can be duplicated partially on the ground with "frictionless platforms," and by passing an electrical charge through the head to disrupt the equilibrium.

But by performing a complicated maneuver in the air, it can be duplicated completely for a short time.

Believe me, it's out of this world.

We tied down all the movable equipment so it wouldn't float around in the airplane.

The pilots—Capt. Neal Garland and Capt. John Simon—were strapped in their seats.

Capt. Edward L. Brown, in charge of the operation, was strapped down or floated along with me during the flight.

The padded cabin of the plane is about 25 feet long, 8 feet wide and 6 to 7 feet high.

To become weightless, the plane started a dive at 12,000 feet. At about 250 knots airspeed it pulled up to a 35-degree climb.

During the pullup, it underwent a two and a half G force which pushed me down on the floor of the airplane as I lay there, waiting to become weightless.

It then arced, hit zero Gs, and I floated.

I pushed off with my feet against the wall on the cabin and went sailing forward through space. I would have sailed on into the front window of the airplane, but Capt. Brown grabbed me as I went by and pushed me back the other way.

The plane completed its arc, I settled to the floor and was pushed down again as the plane pulled up at a force of one and a half to two Gs.

We laughed about floating through space, it struck everyone in the plane as being funny. It looked so foolish and out of place.

Yet it seemed so natural to be floating, and there is a feeling of security about it. There is no fear of falling.

It's like swimming under water, but in air there is a great deal more freedom. The average person can do any type of acrobatic stunt at zero gravity.

Capt. Brown curled into a ball and simply spun through space. I tried a few spins. Sometimes I was upside down and could not tell which way was down.

Without gravity any way might be up.

You can float and it's fun, but you might choke on a glass of water. The water might float up your nose.

A cup of coffee will float off in little globs of liquid. If you try to tighten a screw with a screwdriver, you will probably turn and the screw remain stationary.

A person could start spinning in space and not stop. If you begin a glide, you cannot stop unless you hit something.

They have some answers at WADC, and still are working on others.

The care and feeding of spacemen is possibly the first problem.

Lt. Col. William R. Turner, chief of the respiration section, physiology branch of the aeromedical laboratory, displayed a tube that resembled a tooth paste container.

Food or liquids could be stored in such a tube and squeezed into the mouth. Compressed foods in "lipstick" tubes that are pressed into the mouth also could be used.

Everything must be enclosed, or tied down, or else it may float away.

In making repairs, the spaceman must be strapped down, possibly at several points in order to operate a screwdriver.

After weightlessness came the eerie silence of space and the crushing heat of re-entry.

Now I was driving through the abject blackness of space—isolated from the world—in dead silence.

I was sealed in an anechoic chamber—a room about 7 feet wide and 14 feet long.

There is a refrigerator, chair, toilet and cot. Primarily the chamber is for testing purposes, to find reactions to isolation.

I lay on the cot listening and staring into the total blackness. I thought I could see my hand, although knowing all the while there was no light.

Never before had I known such silence. Ultimately, I want to sleep.

What kind of man will be able to endure the silence and loneliness of space?

WADC scientists have learned quite a bit from the men who stayed in the dark, silent room for as long as a week.

The mind tends to wander in solitude. In absolute quiet with no light, there is not much to do but think. Some of those who have been alone in the room talk a great deal, others remain silent.

Some endure it, others get out. (Next: Scorching Re-Entry)

Parents Get Warning To Care for Children

GREENUP, Ky. (AP) — Joe Conn, 63, and his wife, Opal, 45, have been warned by a Greenup County court never to leave their children alone again or face a grand jury investigation if they do.

The warning by County Judge Arthur Sparks came after a jury acquitted them Tuesday of wilful neglect in the death of their daughter, Victoria, 3, at the couple's log home at nearby South Portsmouth Dec. 15.

The girl died of malnutrition and exposure while in the care of her brother, Billy, 18, oldest of the Conn's 11 children. At the time, the parents were working in Arizona and sending home money to the children.

A stork only occasionally uses trees for nesting purposes. But, Europeans have found out that they will almost always make a nest against a cartwheel which is placed standing up.

Do have a happy New Year, everybody! And do have a year marked by festive joy . . . by quiet contentment . . . by all the things you most wish that 1959 will bring you.

which he put above all in life.

De Gaulle may be expected to wipe this type of fellow off the face of the Earth. The speculator who is now pounding down the franc will find no ally in de Gaulle who did not save France to enrich fringe speculators. When he cracks down on them in France, he may expose the foulness of their conduct so that we see it here in the United States.

He may find a way to force Switzerland to live among nations on a moral rather than a pawnshop basis.

For this needs to be clear: the money speculators, the hoarders and tax-haven devotees are the same persons in France, in Great Britain, in the United States, in Switzerland and in Holland. They always operate in cartelized groups; they always function with government support somewhere. They are keeping the currencies of the world disturbed, so that they can make their profits; they are depriving governments of their due taxes by schemes and devices that are only possible if responsible departments of government shut their eyes to what is going on.

The de Gaulle approach may be different. It may be a moral rather than legalistic approach and it may succeed in exposing the corruption.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I can remember when you could slip into a phone booth when a strap broke!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RUMER GODDEN, talented English author, received a telephone call in her London home from an American woman who declared she was a great admirer of Miss Godden and had read every one of her books.

"I'd love to drop 'round and pay my respects in person," she trailed. "Come by all means," agreed the courteous Miss Godden. The lady thereupon turned up for tea with SIXTEEN other ladies! It developed that the American admirer ran a tour of Europe in which the customers were promised they would meet famous authors and be entertained by them in their homes!

Miss Godden told Roger Smith, of Publishers' Weekly, about another "fan" who wrote to ask for her autograph. Miss Godden mailed it, and in due course received another note from the fan which read, "I have analyzed your handwriting. You are deceitful, selfish, and mean."

Don't Over-Diet

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Most of you who want to reduce make the same mistake as a rule. You embark upon a diet so rigid and restricting that you can't maintain it with safety.

After a week or two, you drop the whole idea of reducing and go back to your old eating routine, which continues to add pounds.

As I have said so often before, you must cut your caloric intake if you want to reduce, but you can't cut it too much.

The most sound advice I can give you is to check with your doctor before beginning any reducing diet. He will tell you what type of diet will be most effective for you.

The number of calories you require depends upon your sex, activity, body structure and a number of other things.

In most cases, a temporary 1,500 caloric per day diet is about right for a gradual weight reduction program.

The very efficient American Dietetic Association of Chicago has worked out one of these diets which I would like to pass on to you.

The following will give you approximately 1,500 calories per day, which, generally, is adequate for adults, at least temporarily.

1 pint whole milk.

5 oz. lean meat, fish, poultry (broiled, boiled or roasted — not fried) or cheese. These 5 oz. may be divided between lunch and dinner. Be sure to eat liver once a week.

½ cup enriched or whole grain cereal.

1 small potato.

4 slices enriched or whole wheat bread.

1 serving green or yellow vegetables.

2 servings other vegetables.

1 serving citrus fruit or tomato juice (4-oz. glass orange or grapefruit juice, or 8-oz. glass tomato juice).

2 servings other fruit, either fresh or unsweetened.

4 tsp. butter or enriched margarine.

Ask your doctor about this diet. For most of you who want to cut your weight and keep it cut, it ought to do the trick.

Question and Answer

G.R.: What would cause a grating sound at the base of the head as it is moved from side to side or up and down?

Answer: A grating sound at the base of the head may be due to arthritis or other rheumatic changes in that area. An X-ray may reveal the condition.

On the Spot

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Second Lt. Thomas Stewart made an emergency landing at Flagstaff Airport. His jet knocked down five landing lights, ran off the runway, crashed through a fence and smashed into a row of trees. But Stewart walked away unscathed.

An Air Force investigation team flew to the airport to determine the cause of the crash. After investigation, the five team members and Stewart were heading home when their light plane suddenly veered off the runway, spun around and stopped in soft dirt. None was injured.

All but one member of the team left on a third plane. The fifth man stayed behind to determine the cause of the second accident.

I Made Trip Through Space

Weightlessness Is Unusual Experience for Reporter

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles in which a reporter gives his personal experiences while making a "trip into space" via research equipment at the Wright Air Development Center, Dayton.

By DOUG WALKER
Dayton Journal Writer
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—I floated in air.

Free floating, without touching anything but air, I could flip over, glide, stand on my head, or just lie there, all with a feeling of perfect security.

I can hardly believe it myself, but it happened during my trip into space.

The people at Wright Air Development Center (WADC) who made my space journey possible and safeguarded me along the way say I am the first non-government attached civilian to free float at WADC.

Bob Doty, chief Journal Herald photographer, along to take pictures, became so fascinated he donned a helmet and became the second non-military man to do so. Actually it happened 10,000 feet above the earth in the cabin of a C131B aircraft.

Weightlessness—or zero gravity—is one of the items spacemen must deal with.

It can be duplicated partially on the ground with "frictionless platforms," and by passing an electrical charge through the head to disrupt the equilibrium.

But by performing a complicated maneuver in the air, it can be duplicated completely for a short time.

Believe me, it's out of this world.

We tied down all the movable equipment so it wouldn't float around in the airplane.

The pilots—Capt. Neal Garland and Capt. John Simon—were strapped in their seats.

Capt. Edward L. Brown, in charge of the operation, was strapped down or floated along with me during the flight.

The padded cabin of the plane is about 25 feet long, 8 feet wide and 6 to 7 feet high.

To become weightless, the plane started a dive at 12,000 feet. At about 250 knots airspeed it pulled up to a 35-degree climb.

During the pullup, it underwent a two and a half G force which pushed me down on the floor of the airplane as I lay there, waiting to become weightless.

It then arced, hit zero Gs, and I floated.

I pushed off with my feet against the wall on the cabin and went sailing forward through space. I would have sailed on into the front window of the airplane, but Capt. Brown grabbed me as I went by and pushed me back the other way.

The plane completed its arc, I settled to the floor and was pushed down again as the plane pulled up at a force of one and a half to two Gs.

We laughed about floating through space, it struck everyone in the plane as being funny. It looked so foolish and out of place.

Yet it seemed so natural to be floating, and there is a feeling of security about it. There is no fear of falling.

It's like swimming under water, but in air there is a great deal more freedom. The average person can do any type of acrobatic stunt at zero gravity.

Capt. Brown curled into a ball and simply spun through space. I tried a few spins. Sometimes I was upside down and could not tell which way was down.

Without gravity any way might be up.

You can float and it's fun, but you might choke on a glass of water. The water might float up your nose.

A cup of coffee will float off in little gobs of liquid. If you try to tighten a screw with a screwdriver, you will probably turn and the screw remain stationary.

A person could start spinning in space and not stop. If you begin a glide, you cannot stop unless you hit something.

They have some answers at WADC, and still are working on others.

The care and feeding of spacemen is possibly the first problem.

Lt. Col. William R. Turner, chief of the respiration section, physiology branch of the aeromedical laboratory, displayed a tube that resembled a tooth paste container.

Food or liquids could be stored in such a tube and squeezed into the mouth. Compressed foods in "lipstick" tubes that are pressed into the mouth also could be used.

Everything must be enclosed, or tied down, or else it may float away.

In making repairs, the space man must be strapped down, possibly at several points in order to operate a screwdriver.

After weightlessness came the eerie silence of space and the crushing heat of re-entry.

Now I was driving through the abject blackness of space—isolated from the world—in dead silence. I was sealed in an airtight chamber—a room about 7 feet wide and 14 feet long.

There is a refrigerator, chair, toilet and cot. Primarily the chamber is for testing purposes, to find reactions to isolation.

I lay on the cot listening and staring into the total blackness. I thought I could see my hand, although knowing all the while there was no light.

Never before had I known such silence. Ultimately, I want to sleep.

What kind of man will be able to endure the silence and loneliness of space?

WADC scientists have learned quite a bit from the men who stayed in the dark, silent room for as long as a week.

The mind tends to wander in solitude. In absolute quiet with no light, there is not much to do but think. Some of those who have been alone in the room talk a great deal, others remain silent. Some endure it, others get out.

Parents Get Warning To Care for Children

GREENUP, Ky. (AP) — Joe Conn, 63, and his wife, Opal, 45, have been warned by a Greenup County court never to leave their children alone again or face a grand jury investigation if they do.

The warning by County Judge Arthur Sparks came after a jury acquitted them Tuesday of wilful neglect in the death of their daughter, Victoria, 3, at the couple's log home at nearby South Portsmouth Dec. 15.

The girl died of malnutrition and exposure while in the care of her brother, Billy, 18, oldest of the Conns' 11 children. At the time, the parents were working in Arizona and sending home money to the children.

A stork only occasionally uses trees for nesting purposes. But, Europeans have found out that they will almost always make a nest against a cartwheel which is placed standing up.

Do have a happy New Year, everybody! And do have a year marked by festive joy . . . by quiet contentment . . . by all the things you most wish that 1959 will bring you.

Ohio Makes Progress in Its Plans For New, Modern Highway System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Travelers moving over Ohio's highways from 1958 into 1959 are finding the going smoother, faster and safer. Results of the many millions poured into modern road building already are apparent from Lake Erie to the Ohio River. Before the end of another construction year things will be even brighter for the motorist who likes to get there safely—but fast.

The Ohio Department of Highway executives, extremely proud of the accomplishments thus far, have taken a year-end look at the state's road building program. They've ignored some political snippings from many quarters at the ways and means adopted to push the program to concentrate on what's been done.

The department's public relations office, admittedly partisan, says this: "1958 was a second record-breaking year for the Ohio Department of Highways, accomplishing a program of 381 million dollars." It added:

"The balanced program, which allows for building of the new interstate freeways while continuing needed improvements on existing highways, included more than 708 miles of construction. This total includes 196 miles on the interstate system as well as 512 miles of improvements such as curve eliminations, road replacements and relocations. And 21,180 miles of highway were resurfaced."

Soon there'll be some changes

Harvester Shuns Request For Union

CHICAGO (AP)—The International Harvester Co. has rejected a United Auto Workers' request to pay strikers for two holidays which fell during the current seven-week-old walkout by 38,000 Harvester workers.

The request came Monday during negotiations to resolve seven points of contention between the company and the union. Another session was planned today. A spokesman said no apparent progress was made at Monday's session.

The spokesman said the union asked Harvester to pay the strikers for the two paid holidays during December—the day before Christmas and Christmas Day—called for in the expired contract.

Major issues between the union and Harvester have been resolved. Of the points in disagreement, two are based on company demands for freezing night shift premium pay and contract provisions for a summer inventory shutdown. Five union demands involve job rates, holiday pay, clerical pay levels and vacation benefits.

The strike closed 18 Harvester plants, six warehouses and two parts depots. Wage rates under the old contract were $2.55 hourly.

Mother Accused In Baby's Death

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A 21-year-old Oxford woman has been charged with manslaughter in the death of her baby girl whose body was found along a creek bank near Oxford last Nov. 12.

Robert L. Marrs, Butler County prosecutor, said Mrs. Phyllis Ann Smalley had signed a statement admitting she threw the baby from the abutment of a covered bridge. He said she told him the baby was born Oct. 31 and she thought it was dead. Her statement said she threw the body away the next day.

Previously Dr. Garret J. Boone, Butler County coroner, declared the infant apparently died of a fractured skull and that he believed it had been born alive.

Songstress Sophie Tucker literally was born on the road. Her mother was fleeing from Russia in a wagon across Poland when the blessed event happened.

In the highway department when the new director, Everett S. Preston, 47, appointee of Democratic Gov.-elect, Michael V. DiSalle, takes over from Charles M. Noble, Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill's $30,000-a-year director.

But such political upheavals are nothing new in Ohio's highway department. There'll be some changes. Democrats can be expected to replace some Republican appointees all over the system, and scores of non-civil service employees holding key jobs can expect replacement.

But still, a hard core of highway employees will remain to do the same job they've been doing for years—building and repairing highways. A change in the political tone is not expected to slow down the progress of the state's road building.

Let's take a look at some of the major accomplishments in the past year of road construction—completed projects, by division:

Division 1—U.S. 25, traffic relief route around Findlay, Hancock and Wood counties, at a cost of $3,295,880; U.S. 68, traffic relief route around Findlay, cost, $2,367,410.

Division 2—U.S. 20, traffic relief route around Fremont, cost, 4 million dollars; U.S. 6 traffic relief route around Bryan, Henry and Williams counties, cost, $1,511,200.

Division 3—U.S. 42 and 244, relocation from Lodi at U.S. 42 eastward to U.S. 21, Medina and Summit counties, cost $14,260,660; U.S. 30, traffic relief route around Mansfield, Ashland and Richland counties, cost, three million dollars.

Division 4—Ohio 21, relocation built as two and four-lane highway between Massillon, Barberton and Akron, Stark, Summit and Wayne counties, cost $14,273,190.

Division 5—U.S. 22, traffic relief route around Rushville, Fairfield County, cost $1,645,100; U.S. 62, traffic relief route around Utica, Licking and Knox counties, cost $920,272.

Division 6—U.S. 33, part No. 2 of Spring-Sandusky Interchange in Columbus, cost $4,358,410; U.S. 40R, Mound - Whittier express route in Columbus, cost, $3,959,700.

Division 7—U.S. 25, traffic relief route around Piqua, Miami County, cost $4,763,376; U.S. 25, traffic relief route around Wapakoneta, Auglaize County, cost, $5,441,503.

Division 8—Millcreek Expressway in Cincinnati, dual lane, non-stop thoroughfare through the city, including Martin Street grade separation in Hamilton County, cost $3,996,421.

Division 9—U.S. 35, construction of two-lane highway from 2.9 miles west of Jackson, 6.4 miles westward toward Chillicothe, in Jackson and Ross counties, cost, $3,098,026; U.S. 23, construction of overpass of C & O Railroad at Hopetown, cost, $824,650.

Division 10—Ohio 50 in Vinton County, road improvement, cost $999,400; U.S. 33 in Hocking County, road improvement, cost, $1,064,600.

Division 11—Ohio 7, Pennsylvania Railroad grade separation at Brilliant in Jefferson County, cost, $3,465,110; U.S. 40R, traffic relief route around St. Clairsville in Belmont County, cost, $3,958,240.

Division 12—Superstructure of the innerbelt Freeway in Cleveland, cost, $8,945,200; also the west approach to the innerbelt in Cleveland, cost, $3,136,360.

But these major projects are completed, and do not include the maze of projects half-finished or contracted for.

More than a fourth of the year's program, $95,024,137, was spent for 21 construction projects on the Cincinnati - Conneaut Freeway between Columbus and Conneaut. These projects added 82 miles to this key interstate route and left only short sections in the Cleveland area to be placed under contract.

Some other highlights: The Cincinnati-Dayton Expressway, Ohio's only six-lane divided highway, will be providing drivers with more than 35 miles of non-stop motorway by August 1960. Total cost of this project, for which contracts have been awarded for 33.1 miles, will top 40 million dollars.

Major construction also included sections of the East-West Freeway that will solve the most urgent needs for those using U.S. 40. Traffic relief routes around St. Clairsville, Clayton, Kirtersville and Hebron were placed under contract during the year at a cost of $7,654,464.

Development of Ohio's urban expressway systems accounted for much of the department's record-breaking program. The first section of Cincinnati's Circle Freeway between Ohio 4 and 42 will be completed in July 1960 at a cost of nearly 13.5 million dollars.

Canton's expressway system was initiated with the award of a 7.7 million project Dec. 9, with completion of nearly three miles on this multi-lane expressway set for August, 1960.

In Akron, contracts for the hub of the city's expressway system, the North - South, East - West Expressways interchange, was awarded at a total cost of 5.3 millions.

Cleveland's Lakeland Freeway extension is being built at a total cost of 3.9 millions. Another giant expressway project awarded this year was part of the Columbus' North Freeway to cost 12.9 millions.

Construction of new U.S. 33 approaches to both Lancaster and Athens was begun in the middle of 1958. Both projects, costing a total of 7.2 millions, will eliminate daily traffic jams on the existing highway.

Relocation of U.S. 52 in Lawrence County as a four-lane divided highway near Ironton was another highlight of the year's program. Total cost of construction now underway at Hanging Rock and South Point is 8.5 millions.

There were other improvements. The year-end report of the department concludes:

"The benefits of Ohio's highway program for 1958 were numerous. Already, completed portions of the interstate system are saving time and lives. The cities themselves, not to mention the state as a whole, have benefited greatly from traffic relief routes, improved intra-city streets and freeways which have reduced traffic congestion."

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP)—This town has had its "bee" day.

The bees sent three persons to the hospital and caused the wrecking of two cars in separate incidents.

Police reported one man lost control of his car when he spotted the bee as his passenger. The car plowed into another and across 134 feet of lawn.

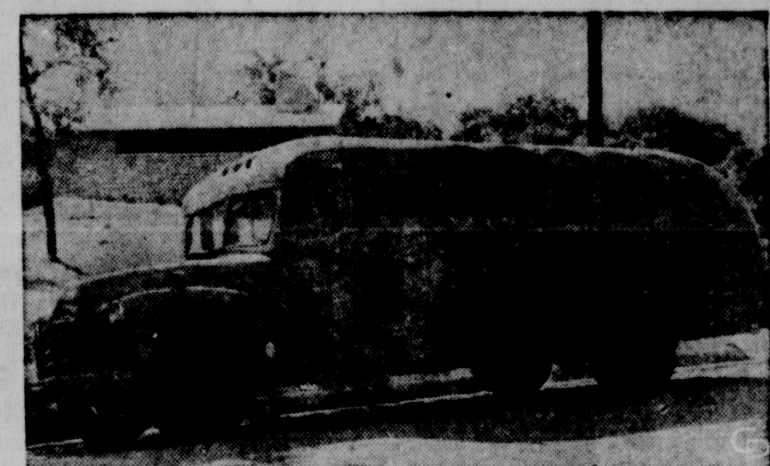

Another man was stung by a bee and became ill. He was taken to the hospital by police emergency car.

A police sergeant was directing traffic when stung on the knee.

But these major projects are completed, and do not include the maze of projects half-finished or contracted for.

More than a fourth of the year's program, $95,024,137, was spent for 21 construction projects on the Cincinnati - Conneaut Freeway between Columbus and Conneaut. These projects added 82 miles to this key interstate route and left only short sections in the Cleveland area to be placed under contract.

Some other highlights:

The Cincinnati-Dayton Expressway, Ohio's only six-lane divided highway, will be providing drivers with more than 35 miles of non-stop motoring by August 1960. Total cost of this project, for which contracts have been awarded for 33.1 miles, will top 40 million dollars.

Major construction also included sections of the East-West Freeway that will solve the most urgent needs for those using U.S. 40. Traffic relief routes around St. Clairsville, Clayton, Kirkersville and Hebron were placed under contract during the year at a cost of $7,654,464.

Development of Ohio's urban expressway systems accounted for much of the department's record-breaking program. The first section of Cincinnati's Circle Freeway between Ohio 4 and 42 will be completed in July 1960 at a cost of nearly 13.5 million dollars.

Canton's expressway system was initiated with the award of a 7.7 million project Dec. 9, with completion of nearly three miles on

4 French Africa Nations OK Pool

BAMAKO, French Sudan (AP)—Four of French West Africa's new autonomous republics joined today in an economic federation to pool their resources and speed economic development.

They were Senegal, French Sudan, Upper Volta and Dahomey, whose combined area of 682,610 square miles is more than three times as big as France but whose populations total only 11 million persons.

All have chosen to remain within the new French community, whose members will look after their own internal affairs but will leave foreign, economic and defense policies to the evolving community's central body.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP)—This town has had its "bee" day. The bees sent three persons to the hospital and caused the wrecking of two cars in separate incidents.

Police reported one man lost control of his car when he spotted the bee as his passenger. The car plowed into another and across 134 feet of lawn.

Another man was stung by a bee and became ill. He was taken to the hospital by police emergency car.

A police sergeant was directing traffic when stung on the knee.

Household Hints

Some cooks like to soak dried minced onion in water for about five minutes, then drain, before adding it to uncooked foods.

Freezing or canning fresh purple plums? They won't discolor while you handle them; chill one batch while you're preparing another.

You'll save money if you buy whole broiler-fryers rather than the parts. You can cut up the bird and, if you have a freezer, store part of it, use the rest.

Note to New Cooks: the word "drippings" in a recipe refers to the fat and solid particles left in the pan after cooking meat or poultry.

Test for yeast dough: it has risen enough if, after pressing the surface lightly with a finger, a dent remains.

Yule Gift Rifle Used To Kill Giver

PALMYRA, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Jeannette Willard gave her husband a rifle for Christmas. He used it Monday night, police said, to kill her.

The husband, Edwin L. Willard, 21, was arraigned today on a charge of murder.

The shooting took place at the home of the victim's mother Mrs. Louise Divenney. The couple's 3-year-old son was also in the house.

Police said Mrs. Willard had taken the child Monday morning and had gone to her mother's home. Willard went to the house and tried to talk his wife into returning home with him.

An argument and the shooting with the .22-caliber rifle followed.

Mikoyan Arrival Is Slated Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dep. Soviet Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan will arrive here during the first week of January.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov reported this to newsmen today after conferring at the State Department with Dep. Undersecretary Robert Murphy.

Mikoyan, a Kremlin trouble-shooter as well as trade expert, will be accompanied by two or three persons, the ambassador said.

One Track Mind

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Norman E. Dunbar, 37, was arrested as he tried to burglarize the Phoenix home of Mrs. Irma Linsenmeyer.

Dunbar had been released two days before from the State Prison where he had served 29 months for burglarizing Mrs. Linsenmeyer's home.

the family grows, it costs more to maintain that level.

In the last two years fixed state expenses have been higher than the state income. The Ohio family still is growing.

There are two ways to go:

1. Cut the level of help the state will give each citizen who needs it.
2. Increase the state income to meet increased needs. That means new or increased taxes.

What is your guess? Higher taxes? You betcha!

MURDER VICTIMS—A few days after telling Santa Claus what they wanted for Christmas (above) in downtown San Diego, Calif., these four children and their mother were murdered viciously in their suburban El Cajon home. The mother, Mrs. Thomas Pendergast, 37, was shot to death. The children were stabbed to death. The Pendergast children are (from left) Diana, 4; David, 9; Thomas, 6, and Allen, 2. An 18-year-old "friend" was sought for questioning.

Dems Come Marching In

Because Ohio Is Growing New Taxes Look Like Cinch

Editor's Note: Following is the last of a three-part series telling what to expect in Ohio as the Democrats return to power after a lengthy absence.

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state government of Ohio is nothing more than a corporate family of nine million people.

Its money problems are only slightly more complicated than those of any family.

Ohio's money problem is devastatingly similar to that of many regular families: In the last year, while trying to maintain its standard of living, the state government has been spending more than it was taking in.

Like most regular families, the state had a nestegg tucked away against a rainy day.

The rainy day came. Income fell off in the 1957-58 recession. The word went down through all state departments: "Hold down on spending!" Just like in any family when such an order is handed down, there was some resentment.

There was a general grumbling: "There are plenty of other places to save money. Why pick on our department?"

Even though the economy order was out, the Ohio family could not save its bank account. The treasury surplus inherited by the administration of Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill went down the drain. The Ohio family will be lucky to end its two-year book-keeping period next June 30 with any money in the bank at all.

An example of how Ohio's budget has been stretched to meet this year's money crisis:

When an ordinary family has a youngster in college, for instance, one-third of his quarterly tuition is set aside every month in order that enough money might be available to pay the bill every three months.

That's what the state once did with the state school subsidy which is paid quarterly. It set aside 14 million dollars a month so it could pay 42 million dollars in subsidy to the schools every three months.

But some months ago, when the financial pinch started to get tight the state abandoned the set-aside policy. Under the changed system, at the end of two months of a school-subsidy quarter, the state could point to 28 million dollars in the treasury as an "uncommitted cash balance." Of course, the following month the state was obligated to pay that 28 millions to schools — plus another 14 millions—but the device made the treasury look good for a while.

If those same 28 millions had been reserved and marked "committed to schools," there would have been little or no balance. And that, the administration believed, would not have been good politics.

Like any family, the state of Ohio has certain fixed expenses—fixed, that is, unless they go up. They almost never go down.

Many families find it necessary to contribute to the support of an elder relative. So does Ohio—in the form of aid for the aged.

Many families help relatives who are down on their luck. So does Ohio—in the form of poor relief.

Families with children — and those without—pay for the education of the children in one form or another. So does Ohio—in the form of a subsidy to the state's public schools. That contribution now is approaching 200 million dollars a year.

If a family can afford servants, it must pay their salaries. Ohio has some 40,000 employees.

If there is mental illness in the family, the cost of the care for the individual comes out of the family income if the family can afford it. The state is in no such fortunate position. If private families cannot afford to care for their own mentally ill, the state must care for them at its own expense.

As more babies are born into the Ohio family, the state's expenses go up. As the years roll on, they must be educated, some need care in hospitals for the retarded and mentally ill and, eventually, some may need state help for the blind, the disabled or the aged.

The state family through its governing body—the legislature—has established the family's policy on the level of help it will give each member who needs it. As

NO TIME FOR A PARTY...

Like most others, 1958 has been a busy year—installing another big unit at Conesville Generating Station... building a second transmission line linking Conesville to our service area... relocating lines in highway and expressway construction areas... adding and replacing equipment to boost load capacities... moving into our new general office building... and working at a thousand and one routine jobs necessary in serving more than a quarter of a million customers.

Then on October 1 we had a birthday—our 75th. But it passed by almost unnoticed. Not that we forgot it or didn't plan for it... for we had wanted to have a party and pay tribute to customers, investors, employees, and others who have played a part in our Company history since 1887.

Then we realized something we had known all along—that the growth of our Company has been due to the progress and growth of the communities we serve... and that in the 75 years we've grown accustomed to being quietly useful in providing a service upon which you, our customers, depend so much for convenience and comfort.

So, we move into a new year with one goal in mind—to make our quietly useful services so dependable, so economical, that we will continue to play an important part in your lives.

Yule Gift Rifle Used To Kill Giver

PALMYRA, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Jeannette Willard gave her husband a rifle for Christmas. He used it Monday night, police said, to kill her.

The husband, Edwin L. Willard, 21, was arraigned today on a charge of murder.

The shooting took place at the home of the victim's mother Mrs. Louise Divenney. The couple's 3-year-old son was also in the house.

Police said Mrs. Willard had taken the child Monday morning and had gone to her mother's home. Willard went to the house and tried to talk his wife into returning home with him.

An argument and the shooting with the .22-caliber rifle followed.

Mikoyan Arrival Is Slated Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dep. Soviet Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan will arrive here during the first week of January.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov reported this to newsmen today after conferring at the State Department with Dep. Undersecretary Robert Murphy.

Mikoyan, a Kremlin trouble-shooter as well as trade expert, will be accompanied by two or three persons, the ambassador said.

One Track Mind

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Norman E. Dunbar, 57, was arrested as he tried to burglarize the Phoenix home of Mrs. Irma Linsenmeyer.

Dunbar had been released two days before from the State Prison—where he had served 29 months for burglarizing Mrs. Linsenmeyer's home.

The family grows, it costs more to maintain that level.

In the last two years fixed state expenses have been higher than the state income. The Ohio family still is growing.

There are two ways to go:

1. Cut the level of help the state will give each citizen who needs it.
2. Increase the state income to meet increased needs. That means new or increased taxes.

What is your guess? Higher taxes? You betcha!

MURDER VICTIMS—A few days after telling Santa Claus what they wanted for Christmas (above) in downtown San Diego, Calif., these four children and their mother were murdered viciously in their suburban El Cajon home. The mother, Mrs. Thomas Pendergast, 37, was shot to death. The children were stabbed to death. The Pendergast children are (from left) Diana, 4; David, 9; Thomas, 6, and Allen, 2. An 18-year-old "friend" was sought for questioning.

Family-Sized Dairy Farms Hold Bright Future Here

The family-size dairy farm holds a bright future for those persons who enjoy working with dairy animals, Raymond Albrechtsen of Cornell University told Ohio dairymen last week.

Albrechtsen, an Extension dairy specialist at Cornell and himself a dairy farmer, spoke at Winter Dairy Day on the Ohio State University campus.

The medium-size dairy farm of 25 to 40 cows has the priceless advantage of family interest and incentive, Albrechtsen said. "It can be profitable and satisfying if good business and farm management practices are followed. It may be handicapped at times by lack of sufficient volume and capital, but temporary personal sacrifice can overcome these situations."

The speaker, sometimes called "the professor in overalls," listed these key steps for farm families to consider in developing their operations:

Improve crop yields; Try to produce six tons of good hay equivalent per cow; Remodel or build a barn to handle more cows; Breed better cows and feed them better; Maintain annual output of milk per worker at 200,000 pounds or more.

ALBRECHTSEN said the small dairy farm of five or ten cows cannot be counted on to be efficient or profitable. "This operation may be with us for some time," he said, "since it usually is operated as a part-time venture in conjunction with off-the-farm employment. The rapid changes in milk marketing further reduce the future opportunities of this small dairy farm unit."

The speaker pointed out that the large dairy farm of 70 cows or more is at the other extreme. While the number of large herds is increasing, he said he saw little evidence of corporation type dairy businesses becoming more prevalent.

"The large dairy farm has the advantage of large volume of sales and purchases," he said. "This large farm calls for close supervision and cost control as well as expert labor management. Qualified labor is a major problem and expense. Production per cow and output per worker must be watched closely. There also is the problem of capitalization of these large businesses and perplexing problems on the eventual transfer of ownership."

The Ohio Dairyman's Assn. conducted its annual meeting in conjunction with the Dairy Day program. Association members elected their former vice president, Paul Daniels, Kenton, as president. Art Crocker, Valley City, was elected vice president and Charles Blackman, Ohio State University Extension dairyman, secretary-treasurer.

Good Seed Is Good Business

New Booklet Ready For County Farmers

It's good business to buy and plant high quality seed, says George Hamrick, County Extension Agent, Agriculture.

Good seed, Hamrick explains, is true to type for the variety or hybrid selected. It is high in germination, free from insect or disease damage and from weed seeds. The importance of seed quality is discussed in the 1959 edition of "Crop Varieties and Corn Hybrids for Ohio." Copies of the bulletin are available at the County Agricultural Extension Service Office.

The publication contains descriptions and characteristics of many crop varieties and corn hybrids. Two crops make their appearance in the bulletin for the first time. They are vegetable soybeans and grain sorghums.

Vermillion is added to the list of recommended wheat varieties. It is a moderately stiff-strawed, high yielding wheat, producing grain of good test weight and excellent soft-wheat quality. Two new soybean varieties are described, Shelby and Lindarin, although neither is recommended for Ohio.

A committee on Crop Variety Release and Distribution made the recommendations which appear in the bulletin. Members of the committee included plant breeders, the chairman and vice chairman of the department of agronomy at Ohio State, extension personnel and representatives of the fields of plant pathology and entomology at Ohio State and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, and the presidents of the Ohio Seed Improvement Assn., the Ohio Hybrid Seed Corn Producers Assn. and the Ohio Seed Dealers Assn.

Raising Dairy Replacements Can Be Expensive Business

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent

Does it pay a dairy farmer to raise his own dairy heifers for herd replacements?

Dairy researchers at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station say that more and more farmers are pondering this question. In some sections dairymen are "farming" out their calves to men who raise the animals on a contract basis until they reach calving age.

Records kept at the experiment station show how much it costs to raise a calf. Feed represents two-thirds of this cost when the animals are born-fed. The use of pasture reduces the feed cost proportionately.

In six months' time, Jerseys and Guernseys consumed 290 pounds of milk, 285 pounds of grain, and 630 pounds of hay at a cost of a little over $29.

Holsteins and Brown Swiss consumed 380 pounds of milk, 350 pounds of grain, and 820 pounds of hay for a total cost of $42.

From age six months to a year, small breeds ate $6.25 worth of feed a month while larger breeds ate $7.33.

IN THE second small breed heifers averaged 106 pounds of grain, 325 pounds of hay, and 304 pounds of corn silage. Larger breeds ate

European Goods Get Advantage; More U.S. Investment Pondered

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The start Thursday of Europe's noble experiment — the Common Market — holds American business attention on two grounds:

1. The extra competitive advantage European goods may have if European efficiency increases as expected.

2. The tempting European market itself whose remaining trade barriers against American goods might be got around by more American investment in plants there.

U. S. concerns already having plants there or thinking of building them have plenty of problems: government fiscal policies, getting raw materials, currency policies — now largely removed by the new convertibility rulings — and European labor laws.

But there is one other — the U. S. government's own policy on taxing earnings made on American investments abroad.

The Common Market is made up of France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg. Slowly it will lower the tariff barriers between these six lands themselves. In time it plans to end all such levies and to keep a common tariff against goods from the outside.

This would be very much like the trade conditions here: no tariff barriers between individual states, and a common tariff on certain goods from abroad.

Since Germany, for example, starting Thursday will be able to sell goods in any of the other five member nations without paying as high a tariff as American manufacturers, it gives them a new reason for making their goods in plants in one of the six nations. — and has even greater potentials. The six, for instance, have almost as many people as the United States. But they produce only a third as many autos, half as many trucks, a third as much electric power.

The U. S. government has been urging American corporations and individuals to invest abroad.

But Americans profiting from such investments must report them here to be taxed by the U. S. government. Many American industrialists hold that investment abroad could be speeded up if this policy were changed.

Good Seed Is Good Business

New Booklet Ready For County Farmers

It's good business to buy and plant high quality seed, says George Hamrick, County Extension Agent, Agriculture.

Good seed, Hamrick explains, is true to type for the variety or hybrid selected. It is high in germination, free from insect or disease damage and from weed seeds. The importance of seed quality is discussed in the 1959 edition of "Crop Varieties and Corn Hybrids for Ohio." Copies of the booklet are available at the County Agricultural Extension Service Office.

The publication contains descriptions and characteristics of many crop varieties and corn hybrids. Two crops make their appearance in the bulletin for the first time. They are vegetable soybeans and grain sorghums.

Vermilion is added to the list of recommended wheat varieties. It is a moderately stiff-strawed, high yielding wheat, producing grain of good test weight and excellent soft-wheat quality. Two new soybean varieties are described, Shelby and Lindarin, although neither is recommended for Ohio.

A committee on Crop Variety Release and Distribution made the recommendations which appear in the bulletin. Members of the committee included plant breeders, the chairman and vice chairman of the department of agronomy at Ohio State, extension personnel and representatives of the fields of plant pathology and entomology at Ohio State and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, and the presidents of the Ohio Seed Improvement Assn., the Ohio Hybrid Seed Corn Producers Assn. and the Ohio Seed Dealers Assn.

Raising Dairy Replacements Can Be Expensive Business

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent

Does it pay a dairy farmer to raise his own dairy heifers for herd replacements?

Dairy researchers at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station say that more and more farmers are pondering this question. In some sections dairymen are "farming" out their calves to men who raise the animals on a contract basis until they reach calving age.

Records kept at the experiment station show how much it costs to raise a calf. Feed represents two-thirds of this cost when the animals are born. The use of pasture reduces the feed cost proportionately.

In six months' time, Jerseys and Guernseys consumed 290 pounds of milk, 285 pounds of grain, and 630 pounds of hay at a cost of a little over $20.

Holsteins and Brown Swiss consumed 380 pounds of milk, 350 pounds of grain, and 820 pounds of hay for a total cost of $42.

From age six months to a year, small breeds ate $6.25 worth of feed a month while larger breeds ate $7.33.

IN THE second small breed heifers averaged 106 pounds of grain, 325 pounds of hay, and 304 pounds of corn silage. Larger breeds ate

Host Williamsport Takes Holiday Tourney Crown

By J. I. SMITH III
Herald Staff Writer

Williamsport's Deers may not have the best basketball team in Pickaway County, but they put on one of the best crowd pleasing shows.

This was the sentiment expressed by the more than 500 persons jammed into the Williamsport gymnasium to witness the Deers administer a 50-43 defeat to Stoutsville in the finals of the Deercreek Holiday Carnival.

Highly regarded Stoutsville entered the tourney finals with an 8-1 record against the Deers 6-4 slate. The Indians started out as if make shambles of Williamsport by taking a 15-10 first quarter lead.

The entire first half was all Stoutsville as Jim Cole controlled both backboards and at times the Indians had four men under Williamsport's bucket and not a Deer within 20 feet.

The second half was all Williamsport as Nick Stonerock and David Myers dominated the backboards and sent Williamsport into a lightning quick 10 point lead in the waning minutes of the contest.

The battle was nip and tuck until the last 2 1/2 minutes when Myers went into his between the legs dribbling and brilliant passing to send Deercreek into a 50-40 margin.

Stonerock bucketed three field goals within seconds on Myers' passes and the partisan crowd roared with glee. Myers finished the evening with 20 points and Stonerock with 13.

The game changed hands twice in the first period before Stoutsville took a five point lead on tips by Cole. The Indians maintained a 28-24 lead at intermission on the well-balanced scoring of Cole, Bobby Sells and Gary Warner.

Williamsport was unable to work the ball into the bucket against Stoutsville's 3-2 zone. The Indians started the game with a man-to-man defense but switched to the zone in the middle of the quarter and caught Deercreek off-guard.

Although the Deers shot 45 per cent in the first half, 10 of 22, they trailed because they couldn't break loose for many clear shots. Myers was completely bottled up in the pivot position.

STOUTSVILLE shot a meager 27 per cent in the first half, 11 of 40, but fought and out-ran the Deers who were down by as much as seven points in this canto.

Deercreek came to life after the intermission period, holding the Indians to six points while scoring 13 for a 37-34 third period advantage.

Stoutsville came within two points of tying up the fray before the Stonerock and Myers floor show rattled the Indians.

Stoutsville hit an even colder second half than its first two stanzas. The Indians shot 18 per cent on six field goals of 32 attempts. For the game, they attempted 72 field goals and connected on 17 for 23 per cent.

Williamsport meanwhile tried 46 field goals, notching 21, for 45 per cent. The Deers also capitalized from the foul line, as they hit 17 of 25 offerings for 68 per cent.

The Indians made nine of 24 attempts from the free throw line or 37 per cent. A total of 23 personals fouls were called, 11 on Williamsport and 12 on Stoutsville.

TOP POINT man, Myers not only convinced the crowd of his superb ball-handling but his scoring on turn-about-jump shots was uncanny. Stonerock complied his his two-pointers from under the bucket.

Cole was Stoutsville's top scorer with 12 points, 10 of which came in the first half. Sells hit for 11 on neat corner set shots.

Special mention should be given Williamsport's Donald Steinhauser. This well coordinated freshman tallied 10 valuable points from the corner and has come into his own as first year man.

Though winning, Williamsport committed nine turnovers to Stoutsville's five. The Indians suffered their first defeat in eight games for an 8-2 slate to date.

Williamsport upped its record to 7-4. The Deers used a 3-2 zone all night. The Deers were presented the tourney title trophy by Hugh Jennings. Stoutsville received the game ball.

The losers bracket of the tournament found Laurelville handing Bloomingburg a narrow 51-48 defeat. The Wildcats are now 5-5 on the season as are the Bloomingburg Bulldogs.

Final Grid Fling Slated Thursday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wyoming, Louisiana State, Iowa, Oklahoma and Texas Christian are favored to win the major bowl games in college football's final big fling Wednesday and New Year's Day.

Wyoming (7-3) is a 3 1/2 point choice over Hardin-Simmons (6-4) in the Sun Bowl, which has the spotlight to itself today. This 24th annual affair will lure about 15,000 fans at El Paso, Texas. Kickoff time is 4 p.m. (EST).

The big guns start firing on Thursday before about 345,000 "live" fans and millions of television viewers around the country.

Louisiana State (10-0), the nation's No. 1 team, the only major college all-winning outfit, and the "Team of the Year" in The Associated Press year-end poll, is a 15 point choice over the Clemson Tigers (8-2) in the Sugar Bowl.

If Coach Frank Howard's Tigers knock off LSU it will go down as the most shocking bowl upset since Columbia stunned Stanford 7-0 in the 1934 Rose Bowl contest.

A crowd of 82,000 will see this one at New Orleans. It will be telecast by NBC (2 p.m. EST).

Iowa's Big Ten favorites (7-1) are 18 points favorites over California's Golden Bears (7-3) in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. A crowd of 100,000 is expected to see a wide-open contest with Iowa's speed demons led by All-America quarterback Randy Duncan and Cal paced by quarterback Joe Kapp.

This is the second half of an NBC TV doubleheader. Starting time is 5 p.m. (EST).

Oklahoma's deep Sooners (9-1) are rated 12 1/2 points over the Syracuse Orange (8-1) in the Orange Bowl at Miami. The ninth ranking New Yorkers are a team bent on a mission. An upset of the fifth-ranking Oklahomans would help ease the memory of the 61-6 shellacking Syracuse absorbed from Alabama in this same Orange Bowl in 1953.

A crowd of 76,000 will be on hand at Miami for the TV game CBS, 1 p.m. (EST).

Texas Christian (8-2) is the 8 point favorite over the unbeaten, one-tied Air Force Academy Falcons in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. This game will be telecast by CBS following the Orange Bowl clash. It will start about 3:30 p.m. (EST) with about 75,000 fans on hand.

In a minor bowl Thursday, Prairie View of Texas (8-0-1) meets Langston of Oklahoma (4-3) in the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, before about 10,000 fans. Kick-off is set for 1 p.m. (EST).

Laurelville Takes 51-48 Test For 3rd Place in Tourney

The Wildcats of Laurelville earned consolation honors in the Williamsport Holiday Tournament last night with a hard-fought 51-48 win over the Bloomingburg Bulldogs. Host Williamsport captured the tourney with a 50-43 decision over Stoutsville.

Laurelville maintained a lead throughout the contest, but Bloomingburg managed to stay within reach. Action reached a crucial stage when Bloomingburg rallied in the fourth period after trailing as much as 12 points.

Laurelville, featuring a well-balanced scoring attack, managed to hang on in the dying minutes in face of a Bloomingburg onslaught which produced 21 points in the last canto.

The combined scoring efforts of Tommy Wiggins, Sam Ebert and the Young Brothers, Max and Mickey, were enough to offset any ideas Bloomingburg had of taking third place in the tourney.

THIS scoring combination accounted for 46 of Laurelville's 51 points, with each Wildcat getting a fair share of the total. Wiggins led the pack with 13, coming on a variety of side and drive shots.

Ebert, hitting mostly on jump shots, was close behind with 12. Max Young hit the nets for 11 and brother Mick had 10 to round out the scoring for Coach Lonnie Miller's Wildcats.

Bloomingburg had three men in double figures with Evans' 18 taking high total for the evening. Harris followed with 13 and Snyder contributed 11.

With Wiggins and Ebert hitting consistently, Laurelville zoomed to a 15-10 first quarter lead and racked up 12 more points in the second stanza to take a 27-18 margin at halftime. In the third quarter Laurelville's tight man-to-man defense produced results as the Wildcats came through with 12 more markers while Bloomingburg could get only nine.

Bloomingburg's greatest effort came in the closing minutes of the contest as the Bulldogs found the range to narrow the count to 51-44 with about two minutes remaining. Snyder netted two foul shots and Harris pliffed the ball for a drive-in to close the gap to 51-48. This final rush was not enough as the Wildcats grabbed the ball and held it until the buzzer sounded.

Host Williamsport Takes Holiday Tourney Crown

By J. I. SMITH III
Herald Staff Writer

Williamsport's Deers may not have the best basketball team in Pickaway County, but they put on one of the best crowd pleasing shows.

This was the sentiment expressed by the more than 500 persons jammed into the Williamsport gymnasium to witness the Deers administer a 50-43 defeat to Stoutsville in the finals of the Deercreek Holiday Carnival.

Highly regarded Stoutsville entered the tourney finals with an 8-1 record against the Deers 6-4 lead. The Indians started out as if make shambles of Williamsport by taking a 15-10 first quarter lead.

The entire first half was all Stoutsville as Jim Cole controlled both bankboards and at times the Indians had four men under Williamsport's bucket and not a Deer within 20 feet.

THE SECOND half was all Williamsport as Nick Stonerock and David Myers dominated the bankboards and sent Williamsport into a lightning quick 10 point lead in the waning minutes of the contest.

The battle was nip and tuck until the last 2 1/2 minutes when Myers went into his between the legs dribbling and brilliant passing to send Deercreek into a 50-40 margin.

Stonerock bucketed three field goals within seconds on Myers' passes and the partisan crowd roared with glee. Myers finished the evening with 20 points and Stonerock with 13.

The game changed hands twice in the first period before Stoutsville took a five point lead on tip-ins by Cole. The Indians maintained a 28-24 lead at intermission on the well-balanced scoring of Cole, Bobby Seils and Gary Warner.

Williamsport was unable to work the ball into the bucket against Stoutsville's 3-2 zone. The Indians started the game with a man-to-man defense but switched to the zone in the middle of the quarter and caught Deercreek off-guard.

Although the Deers shot 45 per cent in the first half, 10 of 22, they trailed because they couldn't break loose for many clear shots. Myers was completely bottled up in the pivot position.

STOUTSVILLE shot a meager 27 per cent in the first half, 11 of 40, but out-fought and out-ran the Deers who were down by as much as seven points in this canto.

Deercreek came to life after the intermission period, holding the Indians to six points while scoring 13 for a 37-34 third period advantage. Stoutsville came within two points of tying up the fray before the Stonerock and Myers floor show rattled the Indians.

Stoutsville hit an even colder second half than its first two stanzas. The Indians shot 18 per cent on six field goals of 32 attempts. For the game, they attempted 72 field goals and connected on 17 of 23 per cent.

Williamsport meanwhile tried 46 field goals, notching 21, for 45 per cent. The Deers also capitalized from the foul line, as they hit 17 of 25 offerings for 68 per cent.

The Indians made nine of 24 attempts from the free throw line or 37 per cent. A total of 23 personal fouls were called, 11 on Williamsport and 12 on Stoutsville.

TOP POINT man, Myers not only convinced the crowd of his superb ball-handling but his scoring on turn-about-jump shots was uncanny. Stonerock complied his his two-pointers from under the bucket.

Cole was Stoutsville's top scorer with 12 points, 10 of which came in the first half. Seils hit for 11 on neat corner set shots.

Special mention should be given Williamsport's Donald Steinhauser. This well coordinated freshman tallied 10 valuable points from the corner and has come into his own as first year man.

Though winning, Williamsport committed nine turnovers to Stoutsville's five. The Indians suffered their first defeat in eight games for an 8-2 slate to date.

Williamsport upped its record to 7-4. The Deers used a 3-2 zone all night. The Deers were presented the tourney title trophy by Hugh Jennings. Stoutsville received the game ball.

The losers bracket of the tourney found Laurelville handing Bloomingburg a narrow 51-48 defeat. The Wildcats are now 5-5 on the season as are the Bloomingburg Bulldogs.

Final Grid Fling Slated Thursday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wyoming, Louisiana State, Iowa, Oklahoma and Texas Christian are favored to win the major bowl games in college football's final big fling Wednesday and New Year's Day.

Wyoming (7-3) is a 3 1/2 point choice over Hardin-Simmons (6-4) in the Sun Bowl, which has the spotlight to itself today. This 24th annual affair will lure about 15,000 fans at El Paso, Texas. Kickoff time is 4 p.m. (EST).

The big guns start firing on Thursday before about 343,000 "live" fans and millions of television viewers around the country.

Louisiana State (10-0), the nation's No. 1 team, the only major college all-winning outfit, and the "Team of the Year" in The Associated Press year-end poll, is 15 point choice over the Clemson Tigers (8-2) in the Sugar Bowl.

If Coach Frank Howard's Tigers knock off LSU it will go down as the most shocking bowl upset since Columbia stunned Stanford 7-0 in the 1934 Rose Bowl contest.

A crowd of 82,000 will see this one at New Orleans. It will be telecast by NBC (2 p.m. EST).

Iowa's Big Ten champions (7-1-1) are 18 points favorites over California's Golden Bears (7-3) in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. A crowd of 100,000 is expected to see a wide-open contest with Iowa's speed demons led by All-America quarterback Randy Duncan and Cal paced by quarterback Joe Kapp.

This is the second half of an NBC TV doubleheader. Starting time is 5 p.m. (EST).

Oklahoma's deep Sooners (9-1) are rated 12 1/2 points over the Syracuse Orange (8-1) in the Orange Bowl at Miami. The ninth ranking New Yorkers are a team bent on a mission. An upset of the fifth-ranking Oklahomans would help ease the memory of the 61-6 shellacking Syracuse absorbed from Alabama in this same Orange Bowl in 1953.

A crowd of 76,000 will be on hand at Miami for the TV game CBS, 1 p.m. (EST).

Texas Christian (8-2) is the 8 point favorite over the unbeaten, once-tied Air Force Academy Falcons in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. This game will be telecast by CBS following the Orange Bowl clash. It will start about 3:30 p.m. (EST) with about 75,000 fans on hand.

In a minor bowl Thursday, Prairie View of Texas (8-0-1) meets Langston of Oklahoma (4-3) in the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, before about 10,000 fans. Kick-off is set for 1 p.m. (EST).

Grandview Raceway To Ask Change in Ohio Racing Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Officials of Grandview Raceway near Cleveland have indicated they will ask the Legislature to broaden a statute providing for the transfer of racing meets from one track to another.

James Burthe, Ohio Racing Commission secretary, said Grandview officials probably will ask for the change since the commission Tuesday denied the track permission to hold its meet at Northfield Park, also near Cleveland.

Grandview's grandstand and other facilities were destroyed in a fire earlier this year.

The commission set dates for Grandview and five other tracks to hold their running and harness racing meets. The commission had rejected dates for all but one of these tracks and asked that new dates be submitted. Dates for most of the state's raceways were approved Dec. 18.

The new approved dates are:

FIVE months or FIVE dollars?

Even with hospitalization or insurance, time spent being sick still costs you money! In the past it often meant long periods of recuperation and absence from work with loss of income.

Luckily today these expenses can be largely avoided thanks to the effectiveness of modern miracle drugs. The wonderful curative powers of the antibiotics, the sulfas and other present-day medicines have practically eliminated the long periods of recovery for many illnesses. When you realize this, the few dollars that your prescription costs are indeed a bargain.

Unlimited Sub Rule Hinted For Revival

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Coach Bob Woodruff of Florida predicted today that the American Football Coaches Assn. would vote overwhelmingly next week to return to unlimited substitutions.

"But whether the Rules Committee will accept the idea is another question," said Woodruff, who is here for the Sugar Bowl game.

The Rules Committee, which meets after the coaches convene in Cincinnati Jan. 6-8, has been known to come up with some surprises, such as last year's radical change in the point after touchdown rule.

In Woodruff's opinion, professional football has done a terrific selling job, and built up a wide national TV following.

"I think the colleges have got a good game too, but we have got to get out and sell it, or go to unlimited substitutions," he said.

College football as now played with limited substitutions has become a conservative, low-scoring game in the main. Pro football is full of high-scoring razzle dazzle with unlimited substitutions and specialists for every kind of assignment.

Fracture Benches Ohio State Center

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Howard Nourse of Springfield, Ohio State's 6-foot-7 basketball center, will be lost to the team for about two weeks as a result of a fractured cheek bone.

Coach Fred Taylor said he will move 6-5 Joe Roberts into the spot to back up regular Larry Huston in Thursday night's home game with Brigham Young and in Saturday's opening Big Ten test at Illinois.

Nourse suffered the fracture during a pileup in practice Tuesday.

Will Ohio Business Continue Swing Upward in '59? Leaders Say 'Yes'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — You know how it is. The house is warm and the temperature drops to 70. You feel chilly. But, if the house is cold and the temperature rises to 70, you feel warm.

That's how it is with business recessions.

The level of business right now is about the same as it was this time last year.

But last year, the business pace was slackening. There was pessimism.

Now it is picking up—and there is optimism.

Will Ohio business continue its upswing into 1959? Business leaders answer with a cautious "yes."

Will the big boom forecast by economists develop in the coming year? Don't count on it.

Will 1959 business in the Buckeye

State be better than it was in 1958? Probably.

That, in the main, is the tone of the talk in Ohio business as 1958 dies and a new year is born.

But almost all the leaders who are doing the talking are keeping a weather eye cocked in the direction of Detroit. Upon the doings in that auto-making capital depend, in large degree, much of Ohio's industrial prosperity. And industrial prosperity is the key to good times in almost every other line of business.

Good sales of the new car models will give a much-needed boost to Ohio's lagging steel production—and to almost countless Ohio plants which produce parts for the new cars.

Failure of the public to go on a new model buying spree could keep the steel mills and allied industries in the doldrums.

The upswing in industry and business in general has been noted in almost every corner of Ohio late this year.

But there still are many soft spots.

Agriculture in Ohio had a good year in spite of an abnormally wet early summer which threatened to ruin many crops—and did in some areas. Farm production was up about 15 per cent above 1957.

Here are the business conditions and prospects as reported from some of Ohio's key areas:

CLEVELAND — Employment at year's end is down about 3 per cent from a year ago, judging from the figure of 553,000 engaged in jobs covered by unemployment insurance. That figure represents about 80 per cent of employment in the area.

Wages and salaries paid to workers covered by unemployment insurance are estimated at 800 million dollars for the fourth quarter. That is about the same as for the final quarters of 1957 and 1958.

The general view is that the trend is upward at year-end where as a year ago it was mostly downward.

CINCINNATI — The Chamber of Commerce index was moving up smartly in the last quarter of 1958, but it brought no joy to machine tool companies. The industry is in the doldrums—the worst since 1930. New orders aren't flowing and backlogs have been whittled to a point where it's hand-to-mouth.

Retailers are generally happy with holiday sales, which may bring them even with, or slightly above, 1957 totals. This indicates a major recovery because there were times during the year when sales were running 4 to 5 per cent under 1957.

COLUMBUS—Lots of optimism here.

Automotive, aircraft and heating-air conditioning manufacturers are experiencing a good recovery from earlier drop-offs. And, although some admit sales are down slightly from 1957 on the calendar year basis, most see 1958 as a good year with a strong first quarter in sight already.

TOLEDO—Major factor affecting employment in the Toledo area is the auto industry in Detroit. Firms such as Champion Spark Plug, Auto-Lite and Dana see their business rise and fall with that of the automakers. The local vehicle plant, Willys Motors, a Kaiser subsidiary, is not tied quite so closely with the auto industry since so much of its production is for export and U.S. government contracts.

Unemployment here is about 13,000 compared with 10,000 a year ago. The high unemployment for the year was about 20,000. Unemployment is expected to rise slightly again after the holidays since retail stores will be letting some seasonal help go. The employment rise now from three months ago can be credited mostly to call-backs by local industries. At least one survey indicates local businessmen are expecting employment to hold fairly steady into March.

DAYTON—Recovery from the downturn has been evident here in recent months and businessmen are forecasting further improvement for early 1959. Business barometers are still lagging behind 1957 levels as the year closes, but month-to-month gains are beginning to be evident.

Manufacturing employment gained 2,040 in November, bringing the total to 88,449, and mercantile hiring lagged badly here as 1958 began, is pulling out of the slump, perhaps enough to match 1957 in dollar volume. Consumer spending has been strong and is likely to continue.

SPRINGFIELD—A strike in effect since Nov. 13 at Springfield's largest employer, the International Harvester Co., affecting some 3,200 employees, had an adverse effect on the city's economy, particularly in holiday gift-buying. Another dark cloud is the scheduled Feb. 28 closing of the local Oliver Corp. plant affecting another estimated 300 employees. Only rain-bow on the horizon is a few industrial plant expansions, promises of increased employment at these plants, and recent opening of some new permanent stores.

CHILLICOTHE — Business outlook for Chillicothe and Ross County in 1959 will have somewhat of a rosy hue, according to Richard Midden, Chamber of Commerce manager. Employment in major industries and institutions continued a steady climb this year, reaching a peak in July. The industrial payroll was slightly higher this year than last and has increased since June.

VAN WERT — General over-all employment in the area is somewhat less than it was a year ago, although some laid-off employees have been called back in the seven major local industries. Construction is brightening the employment picture. Farmers' receipts were good from crops of wheat, soybeans and corn, much better than the state average. Outlook is good for industry and business, community leaders say.

WILMINGTON — Upsurge in business and industrial activity expected here near the end of 1958. Reason for the optimism is announced expansion of Clinton County Air Force Base which will bring an estimated 3,100 families to the community or an estimated population increase of some 6,000. Arthur Borton, president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, says: "Wilmington is on the threshold of a new era... without a doubt we will see a sharp increase in all lines of business activity."

LIMA—Lima recently was removed from the U.S. Labor Department's "critical" or "surplus" labor listings, but observers say they believe unemployment still is high enough to justify Lima's continued listing. One of the bright spots is at Superior Coach Corp., where a big order for military vans has held employment above normal. Against this and potentially more important to the total employment picture is the trend in automobile sales during the weeks ahead. If those sales are good, employment at the local Ford Motor Co. engine plant can be expected to climb considerably above its level of about 900. The plant has an employment potential of 3,500 to 4,000. Gradual elimination of the working force at the Lima Ordnance Depot also has worked to increase unemployment.
